1924 All Black 'Invincibles' Signed Rugby Ball: What an object! An historic survivor almost providing its own provenance. A tad less oval than today, the case of a leather rugby ball of the period, now tissue-stuffed, lace present. With some fading but legible, the legend 'Presented to Stanley Darbey by the Second All Blacks, 1924-5' and the neatly organised signatures in black ink of the touring party, including of course skipper Cliff Porter, and the young genius George Nepia, who won all 32 of their games. Whether for love or otherwise, the small section signed by 'Gus' Hart has been removed, while elsewhere heavy rubbing has all but erased traces of Bill Dalley's name. Stanley Darbey, the named recipient, was a bootmaker & retailer in Newton Abbott, often the base for periods of their tours for New Zealand sides from 1905 on; he had clearly earned their gratitude. A wonderful piece of Invincibles memorabilia: hard to find another such! O/wise VG for age £500-750

Framed Andy Ripley England Rugby Jersey: Intriguing opportunity, suck it and see! An England Rugby jersey, Bukta make, 1970s style, very securely housed in a wooden box-mount frame, strongly tacked shut, formerly on a pub wall and bearing some signs of outer wear but the jersey safe inside. We have not opened it for any verification purpose, but the fading card also enclosed seems in typical Ripley style and bears every similarity to other examples of the late no.8's signature. So within may well be a genuine matchworn Ripley jersey. Well worth a punt at these guides. £100-200
- 317
J-P Rives French Rugby Jersey: Again, a great chance to 'suck it and see': a French Rugby jersey, 1970s/80s style, deep blue with official red FFR shield badge with cockerel, very securely housed in a wooden box-mount frame, strongly tacked shut, formerly on a pub wall and bearing some signs of outer wear but the jersey safe inside. We have not opened it for any verification purpose, but the dedication note on official WRU card within certainly looks like Rives' hand, and he couldn't at first spell 'Malcolm'! This could easily be the great man's matchworn item, and the guide price starts low... £100-200

British & I Lions Rugby Jersey: This jersey is baffling the experts: hence the guide level. Worth a punt? Given to the vendor by Lion Ray Gravell and supposedly matchworn from the 1980 SA Tour, the label and badge seem right to many but the number, a clean white 12, is clearly controversial, whether in style or of course Ray's positioning (not that he ever said it was actually HIS jersey. DEREK LEWIN (1930-2019)

Amateur footballer played for Oldham Athletic in 1953/54 season, moved on to Bishop Auckland and appeared and scored in each of the FA Amateur Cup finals of 1955, 1956, 1957. Capped by England at amateur level and played in the Great Britain team at the Melbourne Olympic games. In 1958, and following the disaster, Derek signed for Manchester United and made his debut in the first reserves match in March 1958, also with two of his colleagues Warren Bradley & Bob Hardisty; all of them helping out in the emergency procedures that United were experiencing in those dark days. Following his retirement as a player, Derek joined Lancashire FA as a council member, his loyalty after many years was repaid by the honour of being President and further represented the Lancashire FA on the Council of the Football Association
