- 346 - The following is a unique item of a lockable, unused ledger of approximately 200 white pages with marbled end papers and brown boards. With lock and key in good working order. Two letters enclosed separately. First letter typewritten, 4 pages, 7" x 9", dated 24th November 1923. Printed address of Watton Rectory, Hertford. The letter is addressed to Mrs Gibbs and is written from the Meyer family, expressing advice on the Archdeacon's garden, mentioning many shrubs, soil conditions, etc. This letter is accompanied by a double sided letter, dated September 12th 1925. Both letters are to an Archdeacon on expert gardening matters. These are of interest in that Alan Turing, of Bletchley Hall fame, stayed with his family at the Rectory with the Meyers for 6 weeks during the summer of 1923. A biography by Andrew Hodges tells a tale of how a gypsy fortune teller at the Church Fete at Watton Rectory foretold that Alan Turing would be a genius. Very unusual item of some interest. From single vendors book collection. Est. £10 - 12

441 - James Joyce Stephen Hero Publisher Jonathan Cape. The original draft of "A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man" was thrown in the fire by James Joyce, after a domestic scene. His sister, Eileen, rescued most of it and a fragment was later bought for the Library of Harvard University. The draft is extremely valuable to all students of the works of James Joyce. It differs considerably from the final published version. It includes characters and incidents which were later cut for the sake of compression. Since the war, a further fragment of the original manuscript has come to light and has been added to the present edition with explanatory notes and a new foreword. Excellent condition. 1st edition.
