In 1954 he went to Switzerland with the England team in the World Cup but was not chosen to play having previously been recognised by the England 'B' selectors in games v Germany and v Yugoslavia in the weeks leading to the World Cup qualifying matches. Following the 1951 Australian tour he was made reserve goalkeeper for the 1951 match v Austria at Wembley. He was Sheffield United's goalkeeper when they became Division 2 champions in 1952/53 and when Rochdale reached the final of the Football League Cup final in 1961/62 Ted was their first choice goalkeeper: he made over 200 appearances for Rochdale including both home and away games v Norwich City in the final. In his later career he became player/manager of Glossop in 1966, followed by services with Oswestry, Wellington Town and Buxton whilst he developed his skills by achieving qualifications in Football Coaching and helped out in the non-league sector of football.
