A GUIDE FOR BUYERS

REGISTRATION AND BIDDING

We advise bidders to register at least 48 hours in advance of the auction as we will need to complete Know Your Client checks on all registrants in order to comply with sanctions regimes. Clients are advised to register with a correct account as re-billing will not be possible. We allow commission (or absentee bids), telephone bids, live online bidding, and in person bidding. More information is available in our Terms of Sale at the back of this catalogue, and on our website.

BUYER’S PREMIUM

26% of hammer price up to £20,000 (31.2% including VAT), plus

25% of hammer price from £20,001 up to £500,000 (30% including VAT), plus

20% of hammer price from £500,001 up to £1,000,000 (24% including VAT), plus

12.5% of hammer price in excess of £1,000,000 (15% including VAT)

ADDITIONAL CHARGES AND SYMBOLS

λ - Indicates that this lot may be subject to Artist’s Resale Right (Droit de Suite) royalty charges.

Y - Indicates that this lot may be subject to CITES regulations when exported.

† - Indicates that VAT is payable by the purchaser at the standard rate of 20% on the hammer price as well as being charged on the buyer’s premium.

θ - Indicates that the lot is a zero rated item and therefore subject to buyer’s premium of 26% exclusive of VAT (0% VAT).

£ - Indicates that the lot is being sold whilst subject to temporary importation and that import VAT at the reduced rate (currently 5%) calculated on the hammer price is due.

Ω - Indicates that the lot has been imported from outside the UK and that import VAT at the standard rate (currently 20%) calculated on the hammer price (inclusive of any applicable duty) is due.

β - Indicates that the lot is offered in Bond. This applies to wine. Bidding will be at duty paid prices other than for those lots marked ‘IN BOND/β’.

Note, the import VAT charged for lots with symbols £ or Ω can be refunded if Dreweatts is instructed to re-export the property or if the VAT liability is transferred to another Temporary Admission authorisation.

PAYMENT

If you are successful, an invoice will be sent to the email address registered on your bidder account. The invoice will include detailed payment and collection information. If you wish to see this in advance, please visit our website. Items must be paid for in full and Know Your Client checks must be completed before we can release any purchases. Third party payments are not accepted. First time buyers may also be subject to restrictions on the methods

COLLECTIONS, SHIPPING AND STORAGE

Goods will be released on receipt of payment of all sales charges. Please check the collection point of your lot prior to arrival.

Unless otherwise stated below, purchases are available for collection from Dreweatts Donnington Priory salerooms from Monday to Friday (9am-5pm) by appointment only.

Due to a busy schedule of sales, we are unable to store sold items at the salerooms. All items not collected within 4 working days of the sale (by 4pm) will be removed to Sackville-West Moving & Storing, Andover (SP10 3SA) and subject to storage charges: a one-off fee of £20 plus a daily £3 storage fee per lot per part or full day thereafter (charges subject to 20% VAT). Collection is available by appointment, Monday – Friday (9am – 4:30pm). All storage charges are the responsibility of the purchaser, billed directly by Sackville-West and are payable prior to collection. Contact: Sackville-West: tel: +44 (0) 2080 909988 | email: office@sackvillewest.co.uk.

A list of our suggested shippers is available on the Dreweatts website. Third party collections are permitted on receipt of authorisation from the invoiced buyer. To arrange a collection, contact Dreweatts: tel: +44 (0) 1635 553553 | email: collections@dreweatts.com.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

Any registration to bid is subject to acceptance of our Auction Terms and Conditions and Privacy Policy. Both are available on our website.

CONDITION OF ITEMS

Buyers must satisfy themselves to the condition of any item prior to bidding. Detailed condition reports and additional images are available upon request.

EXPORT OF ITEMS

Prospective bidders are advised to familiarise themselves with any export and import restrictions or prohibitions applicable to the lots they wish to purchase. For example, the lots may contain prohibited material such as endangered species (and therefore be subject to CITES regulations) or be subject to shipping or trade restrictions. Cultural objects of certain age and value may require a UK export licence. It is buyer’s responsibility to obtain any relevant export and/or import licences and permits, as well as pay any customs duties, taxes and other fees applicable on import into the destination country. Dreweatts will not cancel the sale if a lot may not be exported, imported or it is seized for any reason by a government authority.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

Where relevant, for example Picture auctions or Clocks auctions, a glossary of cataloguing terms will be available in the printed catalogues as well as on our website.

GWYSANEY HALL

THE DAVIES-COOKE COLLECTION | LOTS 1-70

As Country Life described on 21 May 1943, ‘The story of Gwysaney’s ups and downs—built under James I, battered by the Roundheads, little valued and deserted by the family for 200 years, then repaired, and now a cherished home again—is typical of many an old house. So are its contents, with the ancestral portraits of two families and the survivals of their loved possessions.’ Together, the pictures in this collection weave a remarkably comprehensive visual narrative of personal legacy and national history¹.

Gwysaney Hall is a Jacobean house situated in wooded parkland between Mold and Northop in North Wales. The land has been in the same family’s custodianship, by descent, since at least the early thirteenth century. Robert Davies (1555–1602), a descendant of Edward III, is believed to have initiated the construction of the present house and his heir, the twenty-one-year-old Robert Davies II (1581–1633), continued its development.

Robert Davies III (1616–1666), born at Gwysaney, married Anne, the daughter of Sir Peter Mutton (or Mytton) of Llannerch, then Chief Justice of Wales. Being only fifteen at the time of his marriage, Robert was placed under the joint guardianship of his father-in-law and his uncle, Colonel Thomas Davies, who served with the Protestant forces in the Netherlands. Robert himself served as a Royalist captain during the English Civil War. In April 1645, Gwysaney Hall was besieged by Parliamentary forces under Sir William Brereton. Robert was twice imprisoned but his loyalty was acknowledged and he was re-appointed High Sheriff of Flintshire following the Restoration.

Upon his death, his widow Anne managed Gwysaney until 1681. Her death in 1690 marked a shift in the family’s focus away from Gwysaney, as attention turned towards other properties. Their son, Mutton (or Mytton) Davies (1634–1684), inherited the Llannerch estate through his mother and established it as his principal seat. Influenced by gardens he encountered during his travels through France, the Low Countries and Italy, he developed elaborate formal gardens at Llannerch (lot 1) and later recalled in The Royal Tribes of Wales (1799) by Philip Yorke: ‘The old gardens at Llannerch are within my memory; they were made by Mutton (or Mytton) Davies in the foreign taste, with images and water tricks.’

Robert Davies IV (1658–1710), a dedicated antiquarian and bibliophile, married Letitia Vaughan of Trawsgoed, the daughter of Edward Vaughan, a member of Parliament and Lord Commissioner for the Admiralty. Robert’s tireless collecting preserved many early Welsh texts, most notably the Gwysaney Manuscripts now housed in the National Library of Wales, which include the celebrated Book of Llandaff, an important twelfth century ecclesiastical manuscript.

His son, Robert Davies V (1684–1728), married Anne Brockholes of a prominent Lancashire recusant family. A committed Tory and Anglican, he nevertheless showed Jacobite sympathies and belonged to the pro-Stuart group in north-east Wales known as the Cycle of the White Rose.

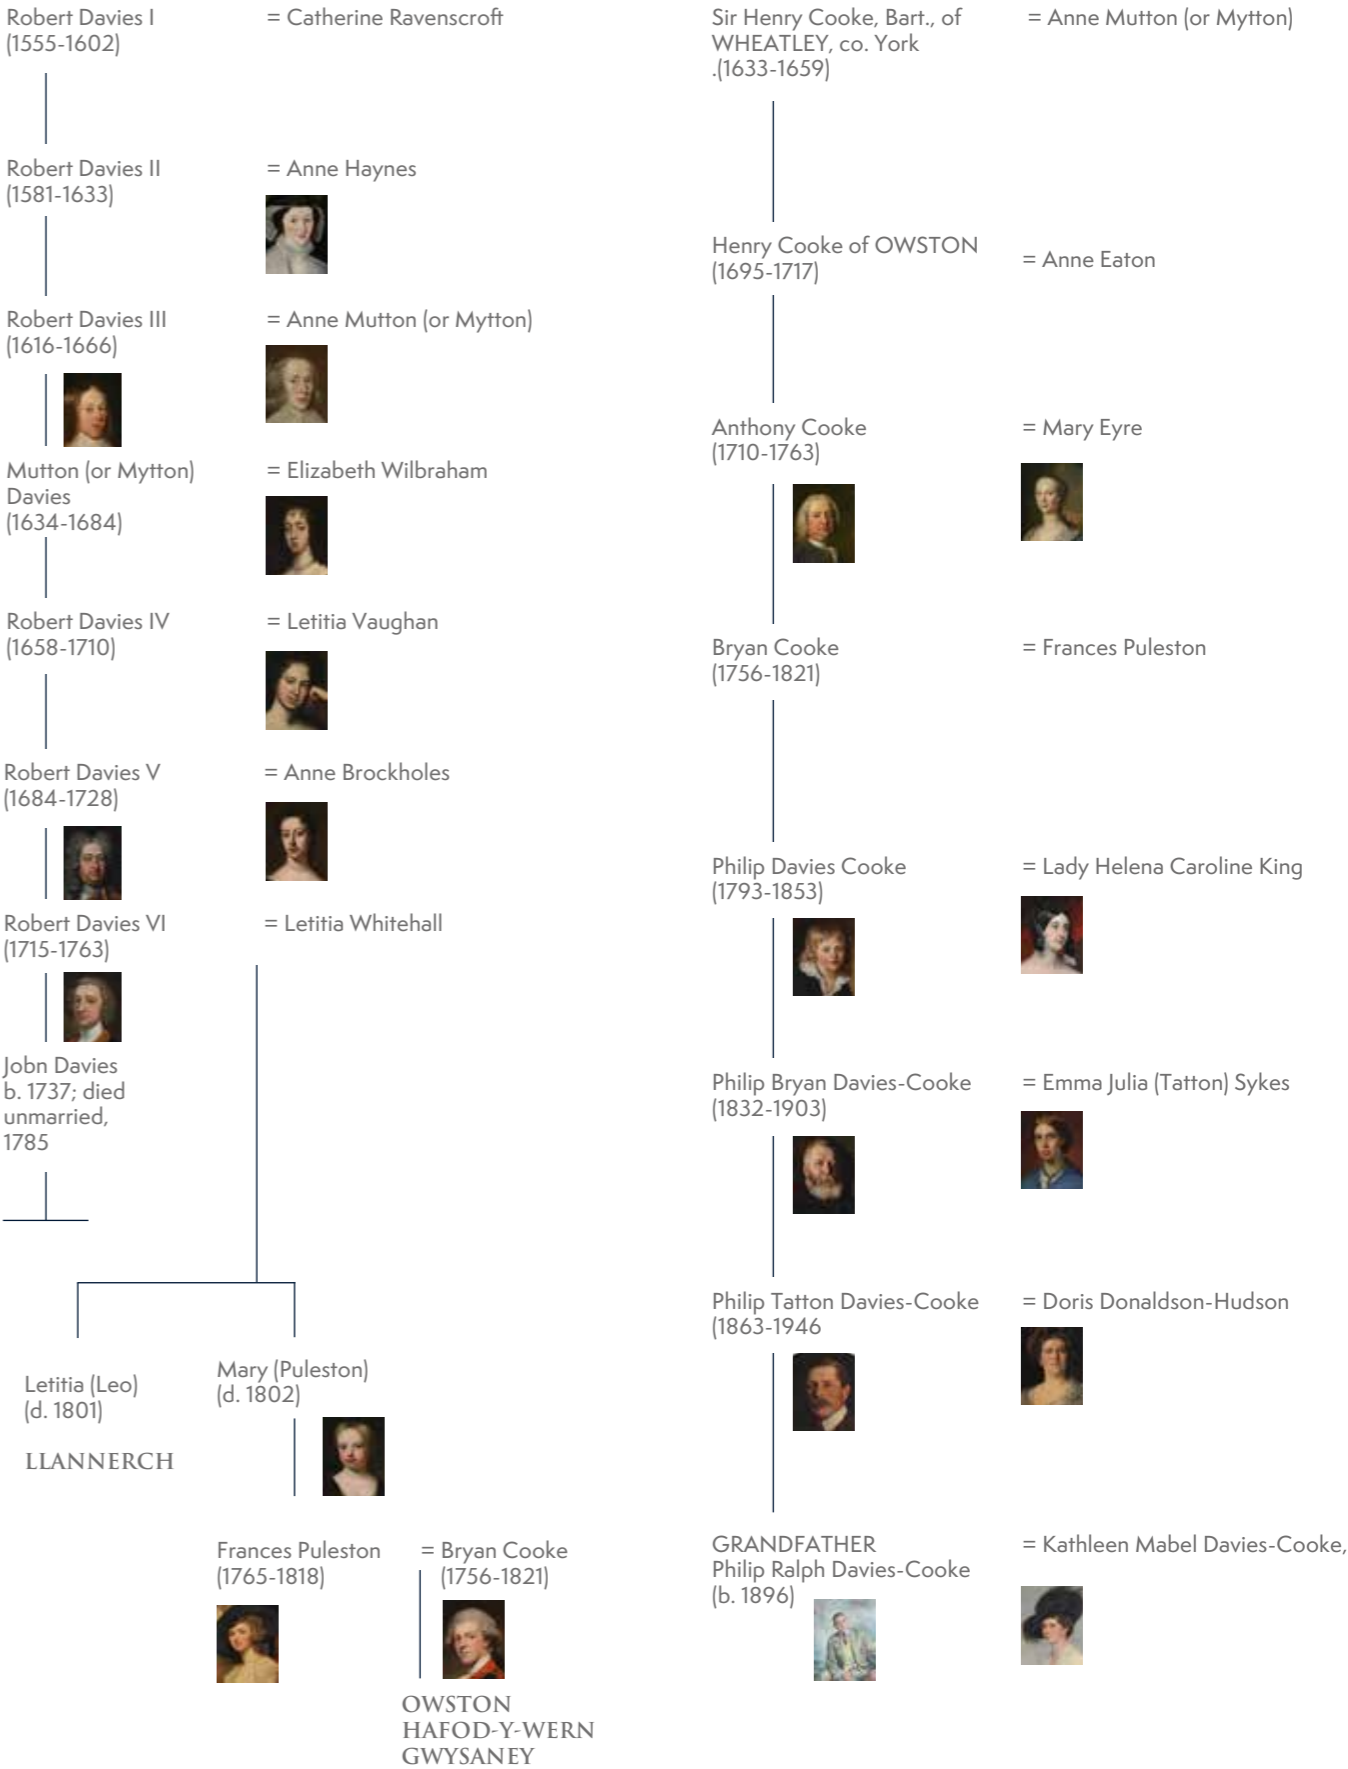

Their son, John Davies (1737–1785), the last male of the Davies line, was a keen administrator of the two properties and was acknowledged to a good sportsman. In 1771, he mysteriously left Wales and did not return, eventually passing away in London where he lived with a Frenchwoman, Madame Verneuille. As he died a bachelor with no heirs, the Estate was inherited by his sisters, Letitia and Mary. The division was decided by a game of dice on 8 May 1789—Letitia receiving Llannerch and Mary, Gwysaney – bringing an end to the seventeenth-century alliance of the two. Mary married Philip Puleston of Hafod-y-Wern, and their daughter Frances married Bryan Cooke of Owston, Yorkshire, thereby uniting the Davies and Cooke families.

Their son, Philip Davies Cooke (1793–1853), became the first to inherit both Owston and Gwysaney. By this point, the latter had been tenanted for the entire eighteenth-century and was falling into neglect; significant restorations were needed before Philip’s son was eventually able to restore owner residency. Philip was also responsible for commissioning the building of Llwynegrin Hall and Maes Alyn; both under construction in 1828.

His heir, Philip Bryan Davies-Cooke (1832–1903), resided at Maes Alyn before re-establishing Gwysaney as the family seat in 1888 and his son, Philip Tatton Davies-Cooke (1863–1946), maintained the Hall during the twilight of the great country house era. There was still a substantial workforce at Gwysaney at the turn of the twentieth century, before the First World War marked the beginning of a rapid decline in domestic service across Britain. The estate then passed to Philip Ralph Davies-Cooke (1896–1974), and subsequently to his son, Captain Philip Peter Davies-Cooke, in 1968. The last owner, Richard Davies-Cooke, inherited the estate upon his father’s death in 2004.

¹ This note is based on G. A. Usher’s book Gwysaney and Owston (Denbigh 1964) and the research of the Mold Civic Society, for which we are grateful.

The present lot depicts Colonel Thomas Davies, the younger brother of Robert Davies II (1581-1633) and gentleman-in-attendance on Henry, Prince of Wales. After leaving Gwysaney for London, he attached himself to Robert Devereux, the 3rd Earl of Essex and joined his company in the Low Countries 1624 to lead a regiment against the Spanish forces. Seemingly in good spirits, Thomas wrote to family at home: 'I will assure you without partialty that as wee are now theare are not better men in Crystendome' and he was commended by the States General of the Netherlands for his 'ability, calmness and bravery'. After settling back in Wales in 1631, the Colonel became a confidante of the Lord President of the Council of Wales, the Earl of Bridgewater and supported his young nephew in his custodianship of Gwysaney. Thomas led Royalist forces in the Civil War and fought his final battle at Denbigh Castle, before his death in 1655.

Thomas Hudson (1701-1779) was both a pupil of and son-in-law to the painter Jonathan Richardson (1667-1745). The solemn poses inherited from Richardson can also be seen in the work of Van Loo, whose work Hudson must have studied whilst he was in London between 1730 and 1740. Hudson's work appealed to more formal and traditional sitters, who resisted the introduction into portraiture of the genial and 'human' element in character exploited by artists such as William

Hogarth and Joseph Highmore. As a fellow Devonian, a young Joshua Reynolds was apprenticed to Hudson between 1740 and 1743. Hudson also taught Joseph Wright of Derby. Between 1748 and 1752 the artist travelled around Europe, however his style remained unchanged, and by the mid-1750s he was regarded as one of the most fashionable portrait painters in London, rivalled only by Allan Ramsay. As Horace Walpole assessed, Hudson was popular with his sitters because they were 'content with his honest similitudes, and with the fair tied wigs, blue velvet coats, and white satin waistcoats, which he bestowed liberally on his customers.'

Captain John Davies was the second son of Robert Davies V and his wife Anne Brockholes. In 1739, he obtained a coronet's commission in the Royal Horse Guards. He subsequently became a captain of the regiment and fought under King George II at Dettingen during the War of the Austrian Succession, where he was wounded. John Davies is every inch the dashing young officer in Hudson's portrait with his hand rested jauntily on his hip and his confident gaze. The artist's attention to sartorial detailing through the lustrous scarlet fabric and gold braiding is characteristic of an age in which costume married uniformity with grandeur and refinement

Frances Puleston was the daughter of Philip Puleston of Hafod-y-Wern and Mary Davies. She married Bryan Cooke M.P. at Wrexham, Denbighshire on December 18th 1786 and resided at Owston, the Cooke family seat. The Pulestons were a distinguished Flintshire family with long established connections to the Williams-Wynn family in Denbighshire, the founders of the Jacobite society, ‘The Cycle of the White Rose’. The artist’s father, John Parry (circa 1710-1782) was a musician who held an important position in the household of the 3rd baronet. Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, 4th baronet of Wynnstay was William Parry’s primary patron and introduced the artist to his circle of friends in Wales.

Parry trained under Sir Joshua Reynolds and he regularly exhibited at the newly-formed Royal Academy. His portrait of Omai, Sir Joseph Banks and Daniel Solander is in the National Portrait Gallery collection after a successful campaign in 2003 by the Gallery, the Captain Cook Memorial Museum, Whitby and the National Museums & Galleries of Wales.

Like many other works by Parry, the present lot has previously suffered from misattribution. Steegman correctly dismissed an earlier attribution to Arthur Devis and considered the possibility that it may have been by Zoffany’s hand, before settling on Francis Weatley as the most probable artist. The fact that Parry was not a contender in Steegman’s mid-twentieth century survey demonstrates how the artist had fallen into obscurity and was relatively forgotten until the publication of Miles Cato’s seminal research in 2008.

The present work by Gerald Festus Kelly exemplifies English societal portraiture conventions of the period. The sitter, Kathleen Mabel Davies-Cooke, is a dignified picture of elegance and composure. Her black accessories provide a striking contrast with the muted tones of the backdrop and her yellow dress, echoing the portraiture of James McNeill Whistler and John Singer Sargent, who were early influences for artist. The work is animated by the painterly rendering of textual detail in the feathers of her hat and the fur lying beside her. Once described by Kenneth Clark as 'the most reliable portrait painter of his time', Kelly was an orthodox artist of academic precision.

His formative years were spent in Paris at the beginning of the century, where he experienced the works of the great Impressionists and was influenced by his friendships with artists and writers including Degas, Rodin, Somerset Maugham, Walter Sickert, and Clive Bell. After travelling to Burma, Kelly returned to London and was elected a full member of the Royal Academy in 1930. His portraits of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were completed in 1945; he received a knighthood and was made Surveyor of the Dulwich Collection in the same year. Kelly succeeded Sir Alfred Munnings as President of the Royal Academy in 1949. In his memoir Old Friends (1956), Clive Bell asserted 'one thing is for certain, [Kelly] is about the best president the Royal Academy has given itself since Sir Joshua Reynolds.'

ONORIO MARINARI (ITALIAN 1627-1715)

THE MADONNA AND CHILD

Oil on canvas, feigned oval

87 x 71cm (34¼ x 27¾ in.)

Provenance:

Mr. Nicholson, Rome, 1840, April (according to inscription on verso)

This recently discovered painting exemplifies the stylistic characteristics of seventeenth-century Florentine art. Set within a sculpted oval frame, the tender composition features the youthful Madonna and Child gazing directly at the viewer—an intimate and engaging motif that the artist replicated multiple times with variations in colour and lighting. A notable example of this theme was sold at Christie's, London (26 November - 17 December 2020, lot 210) for £50,000.

Unlike the version sold at Christie's, the present work is distinguished by a luminous, almost lunar light that contrasts strikingly with deeper shadowed tones, evoking the influence of the artist's master and cousin, Carlo Dolci (1616-1686). Following Dolci's death in 1686, Onorio assumed an increasingly prominent role at the Medici court, producing a significant body of work. Remarkably, he remained active well into old age, as evidenced by the frescoes he executed in the Palazzo Capponi during his eighties.

We are grateful to Francesca Baldassari for confirming the attribution on the basis of photographs.

Provenance:

Private Collection, England, acquired November 1995

Simon C. Dickinson Ltd., London, where acquired by the present owner

The attribution of this painting to Leandro Bassano was confirmed by Professor Alessandro Ballarin on the occasion of the painting's sale in 1995.

The subject is taken from Ovid's Metamorphoses 10:86-105. Such was his musical skill that Orpheus charmed not only the wild beasts but also the trees and rocks which would come after him at the sound of his lyre. Here he is shown surrounded by animals of many kinds, both wild and domestic, who are gathered peacefully about him, with birds perched in the trees above. It can be related to a drawing in the Uffizi collection by Jacopo Bassano, Two Rabbits; the pair appear in the larger painting in the lower right corner.

£3,000-5,000

Writing in 1976, Jeffery Daniels attributed this work to Sebastiano Ricci in full, suggesting a late dating (c. 1720s) and pointing to an execution 'not so much in the style of Veronese on this occasion, as of Lorenzo Lotto, Giorgione or Titian, especially the young man wearing a feathered cap'. More recently, in 2006, Annalisa Scarpa suggested a tentative alternative attribution to Francesco Fontebasso on the basis of photographs.

During the Renaissance the allegorical theme of the three ages of man became increasingly popular within cultured and sophisticated élites, most notably in Venice. With the same subject being depicted by artists such as Giorgione and Titian. It has been assumed that it is the same man depicted across the different stages of his life: childhood, maturity, and old age. This iconographical subject clearly aims to educate its viewer, inspiring philosophical musings on the passing of time.

JACOB VAN ES (FLEMISH CIRCA 1596-1666)
MADONNA AND CHILD WITH ST JOHN THE BAPTIST IN A CARTOUCHE OF GRAPES AND FLOWERS
Oil on canvas
105 x 83cm (41¼ x 32½ in.)

Best known for his table-top still lives, however Van Es did occasionally produce still lives such as the one offered for sale here. Another work by Van Es, with almost exactly the same cartouche was auctioned at Palais Galliera, Paris, on 12 November 1961. This example was co-signed by Godfried Maes for the medallion which also depicted a Madonna and Child. The Madonna and Child in the medallion of the present lot copies a composition by Anthony Van Dyck, now in the Alte Pinakothek, Munich, and was probably painted by an anonymous copyist. Although undated, it is presumed that the work here dates from circa 1650.

We are grateful to Fred Meijer who has confirmed the attribution of this work from the basis of photographs.

As Francesco Guardi advanced in age, his production of capriccios increased significantly. These works often exhibited compositional variations introduced ad infinitum, reflecting a process in which the artist would continuously add, subtract, and subtly modify elements. These delicate nuanced alterations have been compared by Morassi to the delicate, improvisational qualities of Mozart’s musical variations, as opposed to the more dramatic and structured transformations found in the works of Vivaldi.

Guardi’s imaginative capacities are particularly evident in his capriccios. Unlike the veduta, which aimed to faithfully depict actual landscapes or cityscapes, the capriccio offered the artist a vehicle for creative freedom and interpretive expression, allowing him to transcend the constraints of topographical accuracy.

A drawing currently held in the Museo Correr, Venice-likely conceived as a preparatory study for the present capriccio-depicts the ruins seen at the right of the composition ¹⁾. The sheet bears an inscription, possibly in Guardi’s own hand: “Ca[s]tello Cogolo p[er] andar a Trento.” As Morassi has suggested that the drawing was probably executed in situ during the artist’s journey through the region north of Lake Garda, specifically en route to the Val di Sole in the Trentine Alps, in the autumn of 1778. The painting was formerly part of the notable collection of Francesco Guardi’s works assembled by Lord Rothermere. This collection also included the renowned series of four views of villas commissioned by John Strange (1732-1799) ²⁾, the penultimate British Resident in Venice (1773-1790). Among them is The Villa Loredan, Paese, now in the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

He was taught by J.F. Hoppenbrouwers and P.F. Stortenbeker and in 1868, at the age of 18, he received a scholarship from the Dutch King, Willem III. In 1880 Apol took part in an expedition on the SS Willem Barents to Spitsbergen in the Arctic Ocean. The impressions of this journey were a source of inspiration during his whole life. His work is in the Rijksmuseum Amsterdam and the Kunstmuseum in the Hague.

Literature:
M. Webster, Johann Zoffany 1733-1810, New Haven and London, 2011, pp. 38-40, no. 36 (illus. p. 38)

Although best known for his elegant society portraits, German-born Johann Zoffany was also a talented painter of history scenes, and, according to scholar Mary Webster, this depiction of Ulysses Seizing Astyanax from Andromache is one of the most ambitious and successful of its kind in Zoffany's oeuvre.' (written communication, 1989). Webster further observes:

'In this essay in classical baroque, Zoffany appears to have taken Poussin as his principal model rather than the exuberant baroque of the Venetians.' (M. Webster, op. cit., p. 40).

This composition is signed with the German spelling of Zoffany's name, and can be compared with another early work, Venus Bringing Arms to Aeneas. It depicts a scene from the Trojan War, in which the Greek warrior Ulysses (or Odysseus), having sacked Troy, searches among the ruins for the infant he is afraid might one day avenge the death of his father Hector. Andromache, mother of Hector and wife of King Priam of Troy, has hidden the child in Hector's sarcophagus, but Ulysses wrests him from her and hurls him from the walls of the city.

Johann Zoffany was born near Frankfurt in 1733 and later settled in England. He acquired much of his training in Rome, where he lived and worked from 1750-57, becoming a favourite portraitist among the British Grand Tourists visiting the city. After moving to London in 1760, Zoffany was befriended by the popular actor David Garrick, and his entry into society was assured. Zoffany was introduced to George II, who commissioned a portrait and was so pleased with the result that he nominated Zoffany to the newly established Royal Academy in 1769.

THOMAS AND WILLIAM DANIELL IN INDIA

‘Thomas and William Daniell stand first among British landscape painters of India. In the range of their subjects and the sheer number of works they produced they remain unrivalled’ wrote Dr Giles Tillotson in his introduction in the auction catalogue India Observed: The P&O Collection of Watercolour of India by Thomas Daniell R.A and William Daniell R.A, in 1996, when the following two lots last appeared on the market (ex-lots 24 and 34). Prior to the 1996 sale, the two works had been in the collection of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company since 1952. Before this, they spent almost a century with the Bromley-Davenport family of Capesthorpe Hall, Cheshire.

The lure of India by the third quarter of the 18th century was formidable; British expansion allowed for new opportunities where fortunes could be made. Political affairs in the region were closely followed in England, by contrast very little was known of India’s culture and history. It was at the same time, in 1779, that Thomas Daniell’s brother died, leaving behind a wife, Mary, and son, William. Inspired by William Hodges, who had journeyed to India between 1780-83, the pair saw an opportunity to capitalise on this lack of aesthetic knowledge and in 1785, the set sail for India.

The journey was a long one, with the Daniell’s finally arriving in Calcutta early in 1786, where they stayed for two years, building up funds and perfecting the relatively new technique of aquatinting. By 1788, they were financially secure enough to embark on their first tour, which took them along the Ganges from Bengal and Bihar, Kanpur, and along to Delhi to the foot of the Himalayas, returning by the end of 1791. By March 1792, they were ready to set off again, this time sailing down the East Coast to Madras, and on to Bombay. It was during this time that war broke out between France and England and the pair was forced back to London via Peking, eventually returning in September 1794.

During their time in India, the Daniells produced a large quantity of sketches and watercolours which were usually completed in three distinctive stages. The first being a rough pencil sketch made on the spot, often as was the case with A Gate Leading to a Mosque, Chunargarh, Uttar Pradesh (lot 122), using a camera obscura. The next stage, often undertaken later, involved going over parts of the sketch with ink, and adding a broad wash of colour, referred to by the Daniells as ‘staining’. The third and final stage was the production of a complete watercolour. This was either done by adding more detail to the ‘stained’ drawing or starting afresh whilst using the prior sketch as an aide memoir.

Once back in London, the Daniells used the hundreds of watercolours which they had produced over the last eight years to produce several oil paintings which were subsequently exhibited at the Royal Academy. They also published them as aquatints, which technically, were unrivalled in their sophistication and technique making them highly collectable and integral to solidifying Thomas and William’s reputation as being the leaders in their field. In total, 144 plates were produced for the Oriental Scenery series between 1795 and 1808. At first, these were issued in pairs or groups, with the intention that they could be collected into six volumes with 24 plates each. In addition, the artists’ more considered views on Indian architecture and scenery are expressed in the letterpress which accompanied the plates, making those volumes even more valuable to contemporary audiences as a source of information about India’s cultural history.

Both watercolours offered here, (lots 122 and 123), were reproduced as plates 19 and 24, for Oriental Scenery and an example of plate 19 is offered alongside the original (lot 124).

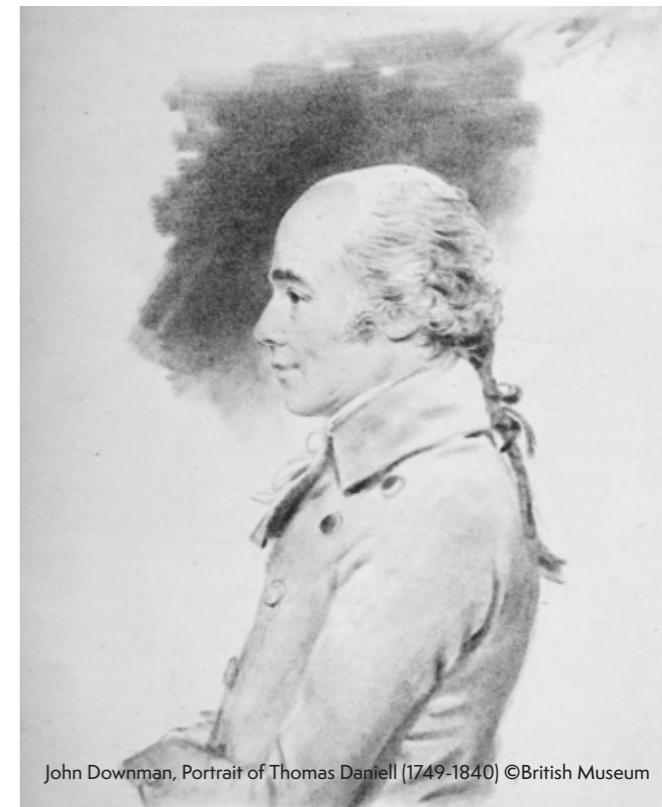

The Daniells’ vision of India was firmly within the ‘picturesque’ aesthetic of their day, and most of their drawings focus on dwellings and temples within a landscape. The narrative here being buildings made rough by ruin and foliage as a scene of ancient civilization where great monuments of the past are related to the natural environment and removed from the chaotic realities of contemporary life.

The Daniells were not the first landscape artists to travel to India. In 1780, William Hodges spent three years depicting the Indian landscape. His views were perhaps not quite as adventurous or far-reaching as those produced by Thomas and William, but nonetheless his work was well received. The Daniells though, stayed in the country much longer, and were therefore able to access a more diverse cross-section of the region, including many areas which were previously unknown to Europeans. In addition, upon his return to England, Hodges’ career began to flounder and an unsuccessful exhibition of his Indian views in London in 1794, followed by bankruptcy caused in part by the ongoing war with France in 1797, is thought to have contributed to his death by suspected overdose in March of that year.

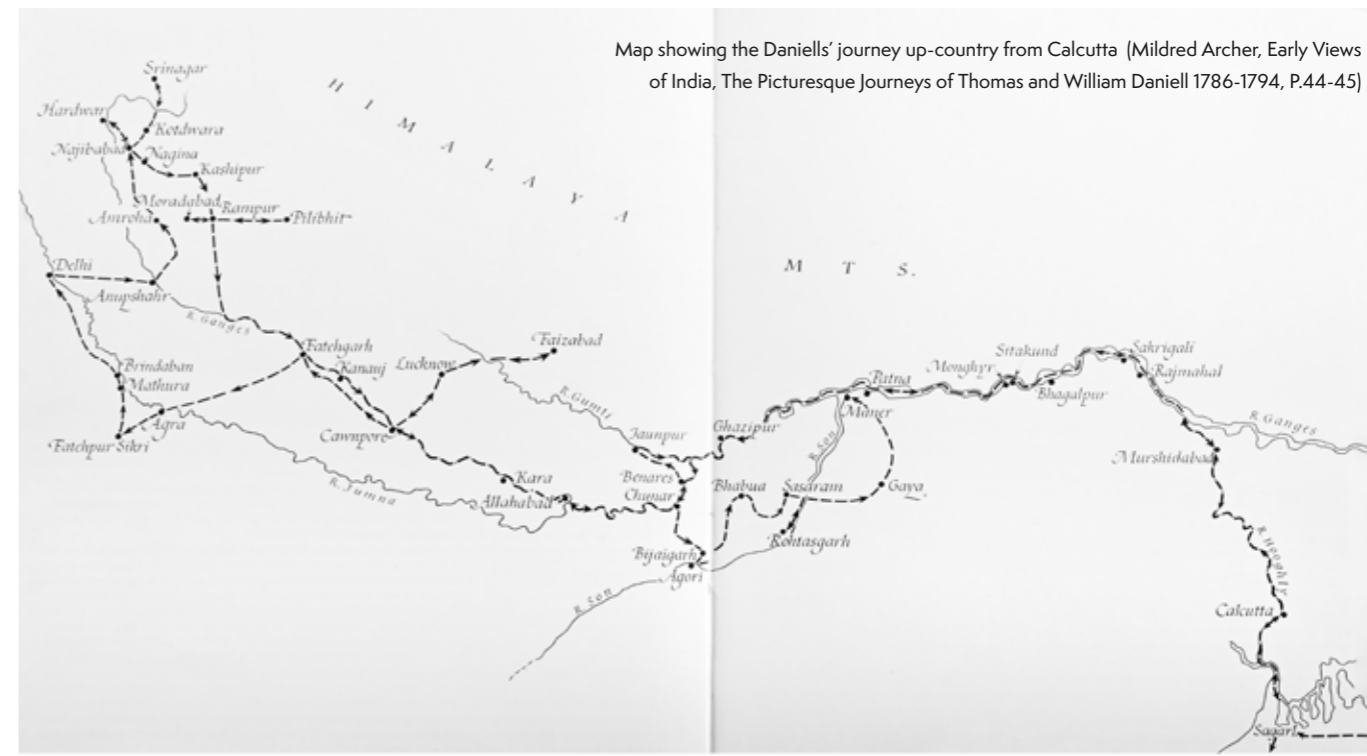

In contrast, the Daniells both lived well into the 19th century, allowing them to extensively publish and promote their work on a scale which far exceeded that of Hodges, or even subsequent prominent Victorian artists who travelled to India such as Edward Lear and William Simpson. It is therefore Thomas and William Daniell who we must credit with depicting the Indian landscape in English Art.

The Daniells arrived at Chunar from Benares on the 29th December 1789 and stayed into the new year.

The fort of Chunar overlooks the Ganges and was built on an ancient site. It belonged to the Nawabs of Avadh and was taken by the British after the battle of Buxar in 1764. Close to the fort is a Dargah (a tomb complex) of the Muslim divine Shah Kasim Salaiman who had been imprisoned at Chanur by Emperor Jahangir in 1606, and the site became a centre of pilgrimage. The gateway pictured here is the most notable architectural feature and makes use of the sandstone that the quarries at Chunar are famous for. William Hodges first depicted the gate in 1786 when he took refuge there with Warren Hastings.
The Daniells' view is from a more oblique angle and in Oriental Scenery they described the aspects they admired:

'The effect of this gate, at a distance, is grand, from the bold projection of its superior parts; and its ornaments, though numerous, are applied with so much art and discretion, as to form the happiest union of beauty and grandeur'.

The watercolour was the basis of the aquatint of Oriental Scenery Vol.1, No.24 (January 1797).

Agori lies to the south-west of Bijaigarh on the river Son, a tributary of the Ganges.

The Daniells vividly described their visit in their journal: 'On arrival at Agouree a person from the fort crossed the river & paid us the usual Complts &c - informed us that the Rajah was absent for some days, but that every attention should be paid to us during our stay at Agouree. We crossed in a small flat-bottomed canoe & were shown part of the fort... In the evening we walk up the hill near our tent and found a vast deal of Matter (clinkers) that had once very evidently been in a fluid state - the general colour of the stones were red which made my Uncle believe that the hill had been thrown up by fire.'

This watercolour was published as an aquatint in Oriental Scenery
Vol.1, No.19 (September 1796) and is justly one of their most admired compositions. The plate was accompanied with the text:

'Agouree is pleasantly situated on the River Soane, surrounded with hills well covered with wood. In this place are many Hindoo temples, and also a small fort, which make a very picturesque appearance from the river.'

M. Archer, India and British Portraiture 1770-1825, London 1979,
p. 504, no. 172, reproduced p. 249

Arthur William Devis inherited his talent from his father, the portrait painter Arthur Devis (1712-1787). He led an adventurous life and in 1782 was `appointed Draftsman by a private committee of the East India Company to pursue a voyage around the world’ aboard the Antelope. He was wounded by arrows in New Guinea and shipwrecked off the Palau Islands in the Pacific. Devis reached Calcutta in 1785, hoping to make his fortune as a portrait painter. Handsome, charming and generous, he plunged into the extravagant, febrile world of Calcutta society, where East India Company officials lived with all the elegance of Europe and the glamour of the East.

By 1787, Devis had spent some time away from Calcutta visiting out-stations and penetrating as far as Patna. This served to expand his knowledge of Indian life and customs which he appears to have had a genuine fondness for, in particular the Pelew Islanders.

Here he depicted British figures in a variety of different poses in an India which although becoming more and more Anglicised, was also rich with its own indigenous charm, influence and atmosphere.

In November 1793, William Baille, Superintendent of the Free School wrote: ‘Devis paints most delightfully, I think, especially small figures in which I like his handling and colouring even better than Zoffany’s’. His travels outside of Calcutta allowed Devis to evolve out of his Royal Academy school trained style into something which more of an edge. Most notably he started to use Banyan trees as effective ingredients in his backgrounds. This is arguably best used to effect in the circa 1790 portrait of Colin Shakespeare offered here, which was painted during the six years (1789-1793) in which Devis’ portraits really come to life, depicting British figured in a variety of different poses in an India which although becoming more and more Anglicised, was also rich with its own indigenous charm, influence and atmosphere.

In 1790, Colin Shakespeare was a newly arrived member of the Bengal civil service. Here he is depicted by Devis in a relaxed pose, reclined at the foot of a Banyan tree with his pointer dog lying beside him. Paviere and Archer both suggest circa 1790 as a date for the painting, which would mean it was executed soon after Shakespeare’s arrival in India, perhaps on occasion of his new appointment. In his book, Paviere notes that the landscape background is likely to be the Governor-General’s Park at Barrackpore, situated north of Calcutta on the Hooghly River.

One of Devis’s first sitters was the Governor-General of Bengal, Warren Hastings and he went on to paint Marquess Cornwallis Receiving the Hostage Prince of Mysore before Seringapatam: and The Finding of the body of Tippoo Sahib, The Sultan of Mysore. Devis returned to England in 1795, intending to publish his series of twenty-six paintings of Indian Manufacturers. He continued to build up his reputation as a portrait painter, often executing commissions for families with connections to India.

In 1805, Devis was present when H.M.S Victory returned from Trafalgar, and on board the ship during the autopsy of Nelson. The sketches he made there were used in his Death of Nelson and went some way to creating the posthumous cult of Nelson which to some extent continues today.

Lear went to India at the invitation of his friend, Thomas George Baring (1876-1904), later first Earl of Northbrook, who was then Viceroy of India (1872-1876). He spent the summer of 1872 in England and received so many commissions for his Indian trip that he knew it would be churlish not to go. After a false start in the autumn of 1872 he set out a second time the following year and reached Bombay on 22 November 1873. His first response to India was one of 'Violent and amazing delight at the wonderful variety of life and dress'. He felt 'nearly mad from sheer beauty and wonder of foliage! O new palms!!! O flowers!! O creatures!! O beasts!! - anything more overpoweringly amazing cannot be conceived!! Colours, and costumes, and myriadism of impossible picturesqueness!!!'. Lear travelled to Lucknow, Benares, Agra, Gwalior, Delhi, the Himalayas, Simla, Poona and Hyderabad. It was a demanding trip for someone of his age, he spent days in trains and gharries in oppressive, overwhelming tropical heat and freezing Himalayan winds. By November of 1874 when he arrived in Ceylon, he was absolutely exhausted but he still marvelled at the luscious foliage that had so struck him when he had first arrived in India. His trip had taken fifteen months in all and was the last and the longest trip of his life. Other versions of this work are in the collections of the National Abraham de Laune was the son of Gideon Delaune (1564/5-1659), the eminent Huguenot physician and theologian, and his wife Judith Chamberlain. The sitter's father was appointed apothecary for Anne of Denmark, James I's queen, sometime between 1606 and 1610. Gideon was also one of the foremost members of the Huguenot immigrant community in the capital, which gathered together in the autonomous French church in Threadneedle Street, London. Abraham married Anne Sandys, the daughter of Edwin Sandys of Northbourne Court, Kent. They lived at Sharstead Court, Newnham, Kent.

 Stephanie Roberts and Robert Tittler, 'T. Leigh: Tracking the elusive portrait painter through Stuart England and Wales.' The British Art Journal 11, no. 2 (2010/11): 25, 28, 29

Sir Aston Cokayne (1604-1684) was the great grandson of Sir Thomas Cokayne, the founder of Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School. A poet and playwright, Cokayne attended Trinity College, Cambridge before travelling to France and Italy aged twenty-four. His literary works are particularly notable for their references to his contemporary literary circle, including Philip Massinger, Ben Jonson and Charles Cotton. Created the 1st Baronet Cokayne, of Ashbourne Hall by Charles I on 10 January 1641/2, he later faced heavy fines as a 'popish delinquent' and for his Royalist sympathies. The only previously known likeness of Cokayne was a laurelled bust engraving which acted as the frontispiece to his Chain of Poems (1669).

Thomas Leigh was a portraitist active among the largely Catholic and later Royalist gentry circles of Cheshire and North Wales. Leigh's oeuvre suggests a familiarity with the work of John Souch, another Cheshire-based painter, as well as with Cornelius Johnson, who was working in London until 1643. The present lot shows a particular affinity with the latter's 1634 portrait of an Unknown Gentleman (1634), previously with the Weiss Gallery, London.

JOHN SOUCH OF CHESTER (BRITISH 1593-1645)

DOUBLE PORTRAIT OF THOMAS LEGH THE ELDER WITH HIS WIFE ANN GOBARTE, HE IN BLACK COAT AND BREECHES TRIMMED WITH GOLD BRAID, SHE WEARING A BLACK DRESS AND WHITE LACE COLLAR, WITH A SPANIEL IN A LANDSCAPE

Oil on canvas

217 x 212cm (85¼ x 83¾ in.)

In a Lely panelled frame

Provenance:

The Legh family, Adlington Hall, Cheshire

John Souch (c.1593-1645) was born in Ormskirk, Lancashire and painted predominantly in the North-West of England. In 1607, at the age of fourteen, he was apprenticed to Randle Holme I, a herald painter and antiquary who had been appointed deputy Herald of the College of Arms in Cheshire, Lancashire and North Wales. His workshop would have produced heraldic devices, coats of arms, hatchments and the more gifted artist's also produced portraiture. Souch flourished under Holme's tutelage and when he left in 1616 he became a Freeman of Chester. He also became a member of the Painters and Stationers Company, a guild that met in the upper room of the Pheonix Tower on the city walls.

He was based in Chester but also travelled for commissions. His first recorded portrait is most probably that of Francis Clifford, 4th Earl of Cumberland, which he painted at Skipton Castle in 1620 for which he was paid 30 shillings. His masterpiece is his group portrait of Sir Thomas Aston at the deathbed of his first wife, dating from 1635 and now in the Manchester City Art Gallery. There is also a marriage portrait signed and dated 1640 in the Grosvenor Museum, Chester. He is recorded as having one apprentice by the name of Thomas Pulford in 1636. He died in 1645 and it is possible that he, like Randle Holme, were royalist supporters and died in the siege of Chester during the Civil War.

Thomas Legh, like his sons, was a staunch Royalist and on two occasions Adlington was taken by the Parliamentarians during the Civil War. According to a 1952 Country Life article about the collection, this picture was defaced and marks made by sword-slashes can still be seen.

The sitters are depicted hand-in-hand and have conspicuously removed their gloves to do so. A sign of their tender intimacy.

AFTER SIR GODFREY KNELLER
Portrait of Elizabeth Cutler, Countess of Radnor (died circa 1696)
Oil on canvas
Later inscribed with identifying inscription (to stretcher verso)
117 x 95.5cm (46 x 37½ in.)
In a carved and gilded frame

Provenance:
The Legh family, Adlington Hall, Cheshire

The present lot after the primary version at Llanhydrock House, Cornwall.

Lady Elizabeth Cutler (d. 1696) was the daughter of Sir John Cutler, 1st Bt., of Wimpole Hall, Cambridgeshire, and his second wife, Elicia Tipping. On 4 June 1689, Lady Elizabeth married Charles Bodvile Robartes, 2nd Earl of Radnor, son of Robert Robartes, Viscount Bodmin (1634-82), and Sarah Bodvile (1640-1720). She died on 13 January 1696, without issue. The present portrait most likely entered the Legh collection following the marriage of Lady Isabella Robartes (1674-1725) to John Legh of Adlington Hall in 1693. Alternatively, it is conceivable that it could have been retained at Llanhydrock but later gifted to or purchased by the Legh family upon the death of their cousin, the 3rd Earl of Radnor, in 1741 when the Radnor title and Llanhydrock were separated: the title succeeded by distant cousin and the house, believe by antiquarian John Loveday to be in a sorry state, bequeathed to a nephew.

FOLLOWER OF SIR GODFREY KNELLER
An allegorical portrait of Marie Luise (1704-53), Amalie Sophie (1710-1765), Wilhelmine Caroline (1720-88)
Oil on canvas
92.5 x 110cm (36¼ x 43¼ in.)

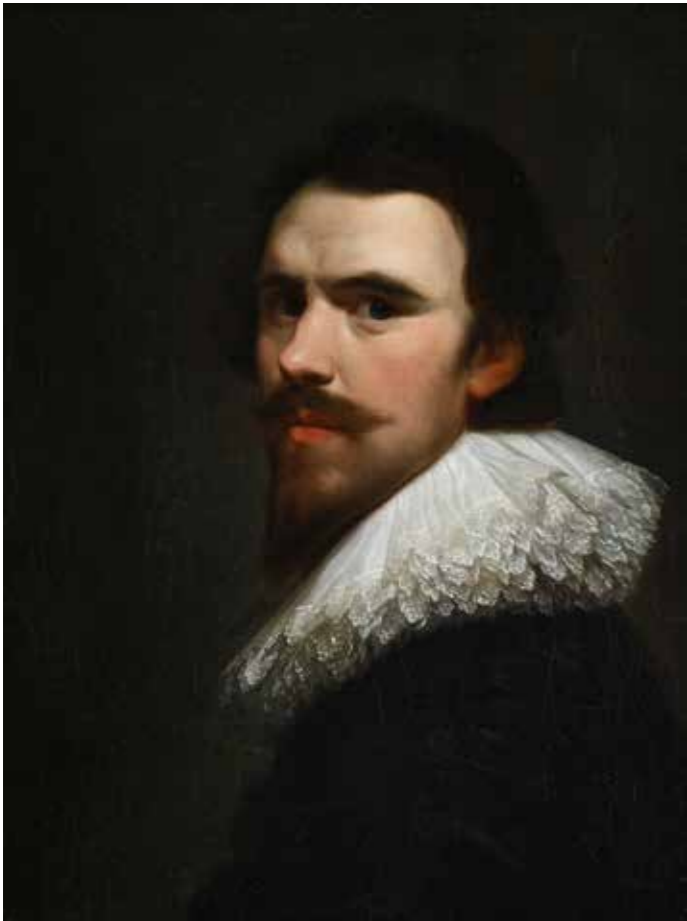

Identified by the Historisches Museum of Hannover as the daughters of Franz von Wendt (1675-1748), this striking portrait allegorically references the mythological tale of the Judgement of Paris. The central sitter is likely to be Amalie Sophie, holding the golden apple to symbolise Aphrodite's selection by Paris as the 'fairest one.' This portrayal may allude to her significance at court, particularly her relationship with King George II, who made her his principal mistress from the mid-1730s until his death in 1760. He is believed to have fathered her second son, Johann Ludwig von Wallmoden-Gimborn. In 1739, Amalie Sophie became a British citizen and was granted the title Countess of Yarmouth. She returned to Hanover following George II's death in 1760.

A similar work was in the collection of the von Steinberg family at Schloss Brüggen, probably by descent following Marie Luise's marriage to Ernst von Steinberg-Bodenburg in 1726.^[1]

GROUP PORTRAIT OF CHILDREN TROTTI BENTIVOGLIO FAMILY
Oil on canvas
174 x 254cm (68½ x 100 in.)

The Trotti Bentivoglio family were a noble family from Alessandria. Antonio Trotti, a military man, became captain of justice in Bologna and obtained from Giovanni II Bentivoglio, Lord of Bologna, permission to use his surname and arms, on 25 December 1478, thus creating the Trotti Bentivoglio dynasty.

Through the generations, members of the family held administrative roles on a local level on behalf of the Duchy of Milan which owned the city of Castellazzo with all of Alessandria until the Savoy conquest in the eighteenth century.

The Trotti Bentivoglio family line came to an end in 1930 with the death of Lorenzo Trotti Bentivoglio, a painter and writer, who bequeathed his palace to the municipal administration in Alessandria.

THOMAS HUDSON (BRITISH 1701-1779)

PORTRAIT OF CATHERINE ‘KITTY’ JERVIS (1733-1756),

MRS. JEREMIAH SMITH

Oil on canvas

127 x 101.6cm (50 x 40 in.)

In a period eighteenth century swept and pierced, carved and gilded frame

Painted circa 1755.

Provenance:

The sitter’s brother, Admiral of the Fleet John Jervis, 1st Earl of St Vincent (1735-1823), Meaford Hall, Staffordshire removed from Meaford Hall when the house was sold in 1943 by descent to Edward Swynfen Parker-Jervis

Exhibited:

Birmingham, City Museum and Art Gallery, Exhibition of Treasures from Midland Homes, 2nd November - 2nd December 1938 (lent by Mr Robert St Vincent Parker-Jervis)

Catherine Margaret Jervis, known to her family as Kitty, was the second daughter of Swynfen Jervis (1700-1771) of Meaford Hall, near Stone, Staffordshire and his wife Elizabeth Parker, daughter of George Parker of Park Hall. Both of Kitty’s parents came from long-established Staffordshire gentry families; the Jervises had been established in the county since the days of Edward III (reg.1327-77). Swynfen Jervis practised as a lawyer, becoming Counsel to the Admiralty and Auditor to Greenwich Hospital; the family divided their time between Greenwich and their estates.

On 18th March 1755 Kitty married at St Alphege, Greenwich a Staffordshire neighbour, Jeremiah Smith of Great Fenton Hall, which was situated eight miles north of Meaford. This portrait was probably made around the time of her marriage. Thomas Hudson was clearly the portraitist of choice for the family: he painted Jeremiah Smith, by then High Sheriff of Staffordshire, in 1762 (Staffordshire County Buildings, Stafford). The Smiths were prominent landowners in Great Fenton, today a suburb of Stoke-on-Trent. By the mid-eighteenth century the area was becoming part of the heartland of the Industrial Revolution, with ceramic producers that would later bear famous names such as Spode, Copeland and Minton. The country was rich in ironstone and coal, essential for the firing of the kilns. Jeremiah Smith obtained mining rights in Fenton which were developed by his descendants. By 1840, a land ‘once the pure and peaceful domicile of [the owners’] ancestry [was] but now the black and noisy seat of Cyclopean labours’.

Naturally, no hint of this gradual industrialisation is apparent in Hudson’s portrait of Kitty Jervis. She is portrayed leaning against a rock with a woodland sunrise beyond. Her elegant, broad-brimmed hat, which gives her a dashing air, puffed sleeves and the feather in her hand are inspired by a Rubens portrait then thought to be of his wife, but which probably depicts his sister-in-law, Susanna Fourment (Gulbenkian Museum, Lisbon). It was acquired by Sir Robert Walpole and hung in the Van Dyck Drawing Room at Houghton, but was well known from James McArdell’s mezzotint after it. The Rubens portrait sparked a vogue for painting ladies in ‘van Dyck’ dress, much employed by Hudson in the 1730s and 40s, as well as the use of van Dyck dress in masquerade costumes. Horace Walpole wrote to his friend Horace Mann in 1742 of seeing at the Duchess of Norfolk’s masquerade ‘quantities of pretty Vandykes, and all kinds of old pictures walked out of their frames’ ⁽¹⁾.

Kitty’s costume is a charming fantasy, a hybrid of ‘van Dyck’ dress and mid-eighteenth century high fashion. The lace choker at her throat is in contemporary vogue, as is her jewellery. A locket probably containing a likeness of her husband is strung from the rubies and pearls at her waist. Hudson repeated this model, down to the rocky background and soft blue silk dress, in a full-length portrait of Mary Bertie, Duchess of Ancaster and Kesteven, painted in 1757 (Grimsthorpe Castle, Lincolnshire). The same format is employed in a portrait of Lady Oxenden (Art Gallery of New South Wales), recently reattributed to Hudson’s pupil Joseph Wright of Derby.

Sadly, Kitty’s marriage was short-lived: she died giving birth to her son Charles in 1756. Her portrait was inherited by her younger brother John Jervis (1735-1823), whose brilliant naval career led to his creation as 1st Earl of St Vincent for his victory over the French at Cape St Vincent on 14th February 1797, an action which also brought Captain Horatio Nelson to prominence. A just, well-loved and reforming officer, Jervis crowned his career as Admiral of the Fleet. Kitty’s painting remained at Meaford Hall until the house was sold in 1943 and has descended in the Parker-Jervis family.

Jonathan Stanyforth (d.1779) was the son of Disney Stanyforth and his wife Mary (d.1756), daughter and co-heir of Nicholas Skinner of London. The Stanyforth family lived at Firbeck Hall in Yorkshire, which they had acquired in 1676. On the death of Amelia Stanyforth in 1792, Firbeck Hall was inherited by her distant relative John Barker who sold it to Henry Gally of Langold.

Thomas Murray, who was born in Scotland, was a pupil of the eminent portrait painter John Riley, taking over his practice when Riley died in 1691. His practice was successful and he painted portraits of many prominent figures of his day among them John, 1st Duke of Atholl, Christopher, 2nd Duke of Albermarle and William, Duke of Gloucester.

 Where acquired by a private collector

This portrait depicts the Lancashire merchant, politician and patron Sir James Darcy Lever of Alkrington Hall (1703-1742)^[1]. Set within a grand neo-classical interior, the sitter is depicted wearing an informal turban or cap and sitting next to a carved and gilded table bearing the Lever of Alkrington coat of arms^[2]. Furthermore, the gentleman holds a diagram of an archimedean spiral and a drawing of a squared circle, allusions to classical mathematics and geometry.

Sir James descended from the affluent Levers of the North-West of England, whose earliest recorded presence in that area dates to the thirteenth century^[3]. He is recorded as having matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford in 1723, appointed High Sheriff of Lancashire in 1736, and eventually knighted in 1737. Apart from this portrait, Lever's most significant piece of patronage was the commissioning of the Venetian architect Giacomo Leoni (1686-1746) to rebuild Alkrington Hall in 1735-6. Alkrington Hall is more widely known for being the oldest Palladian House in Lancashire^[4].

Born in Lincolnshire in 1721, the artist Isaac Whood (1688/9-1752) was recorded as a portrait painter, copyist, picture dealer and antiquarian. His most significant works include a set of portraits known as Dr Burton's Commoners in the collection of Winchester College^[5]. This lot, signed by the artist, is typical of the painter's powerful baroque portraits and was created during the most prolific decade of his career.

^[1] Although the portrait was formerly called John Lever of Darcy Lever (1701-1794), it seems that this identification was based on an incorrect reading of the inscription on the painting.

 PORTRAIT OF A LADY IN MASQUERADE DRESS, BELIEVED TO BE FELICITA SARTORI
 Oil on canvas
 66 x 55.7cm (25 x 21¾ in.)

Felicita Sartori was the pupil of the celebrated pastel painter Rosalba Carriera. It is recorded that Sartori painted a number of copies in oils of Carriera's pastels.

In the early 18th century, Rosalba Carriera, a Venetian pastellist of international renown, established the European fashion for pastel portraits, inspiring a number of vocations, including Maurice Quentin de La Tour. A brilliant image of rococo, this "Turkish-style" portrait, an allusion to the lavish Venice of costume balls, also embodies the period's taste for fanciful orientalism. The model holds a mask in her hand, like Thalie, the muse of comedy. However, beyond allegory, the artist's preferred genre, we recognize the features of Felicity Sartori, one of her closest assistants. After thirteen years of collaboration, Sartori moved to Dresden and entered the service of Augustus III of Saxony as miniaturist and artistic tutor to his daughters.

After the original work now in the Louvre, Paris. This portrait of Madame de Pompadour (1721-1764), was commissioned by Louis XV's mistress in 1749, and created in order to emphasise her evolving relationship with the King. By the early 1750s, Madame de Pompadour ceased to be the King's mistress, taking on instead a role as friend and confidante.

She is portrayed as an idealised beauty with evidence of her cultivation and enlightened tastes in literature, her refined aesthetic sensibilities, and her talent in music.

The portrait took several years to complete, due to a combination of legitimate excuses and bad faith by Delatour, and was finally exhibited at the Salon of 1755.

In 1797, three decades after Madame de Pompadour's death, the picture reappeared when offered by Lespinasse d'Arlet to the Museum central des arts (then the name given to the Louvre), which refused it. It was then sold at auction in 1803, and purchased by the dealer Paillet by whom it was sold the following year to the Musée spécial de l'École française in Versailles. Not until 1838, was the work finally acquired by the Louvre.

Joseph Wright of Derby spent nearly two years travelling in Italy between 1773, and 1775 with much of his time being spent in and around Rome, with a brief sojourn to Naples, exploring Pompeii and Herculaneum, as well as the wonders of the Amalfi coast in 1774.

Before coming to Italy, landscape painting had played a very insignificant role in Wright's work, but The Eternal city and the surrounding areas exposed Wright to the wonderful Italian countryside, all bathed in a dazzling Mediterranean light.

This newfound appreciation for landscape painting was something which would continue throughout the artist's career. Fifteen years after his return to England in 1792, the artist wrote to his friend John Leigh Philips 'I know not how it is, tho' I am engaged in portraits and made a dead colour of a half length yesterday, I find myself continually stealing off and getting to Landscapes.'

Very few of Wright's Italian subjects were painted in Italy. Most, like the work offered here, were worked up when he returned to England from drawings or gouache sketches, he made on the spot. Lake Nemi, painted in 1782, was originally conceived as a pair, with the second view being of San Felice Circeo, near Gaeta. Both Lake Nemi and San Felice Circeo were views which the artist repeatedly returned to.

Sir Gilbert Inglefield (1909-1991) was a British architect and Mayor of London (1967-1968). In 1957, he was appointed chairman of the Barbican Committee, responsible for building the Barbican Estate.

Several versions of this Italianate composition by Varley are known, identified as either Brougham Castle, Northumberland, or Berry Pomeroy Castle, Devonshire. Of the two possibilities, it seems more likely that the view in the present lot is Berry Pomeroy Castle, due to similarities with Thomas Girtin's earlier treatment of the same subject (see Christie's The Collection of the Late Mrs T.S Eliot, 20 November 2013, lot 273).

Towne arrived in Rome in October 1780. He spent the next nine months working in the city, at the same time as Thomas Jones and John 'Warwick' Smith. Civita Castellana is twenty miles north of Rome. Towne left Rome in late July 1781 and travelled north with 'Warwick' Smith to Florence, the Italian lakes and then to Switzerland. In 1805, two views of Civita Castellana were exhibited in Towne's one-man show at the Gallery, 20 Lower Brook Street, Grosvenor Square (nos 134 and 135). Numbered '1', this drawing is presumably the first of a series of drawings that was started in Italy and finished when Towne went to Switzerland.

ENGLISH SCHOOL (19TH CENTURY), AFTER THOMAS GIRTIN
NEWCASTLE ON TYNE
 Pencil and watercolour
 Inscribed and dated 'Newcastle on Tyne 1796/7' (on the reverse, according to an inscription on a backboard)
 10.1 x 16cm (3¾ x 6¼ in.)

The present watercolour relates closely to two finished watercolours showing a panoramic view of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, one in the Fitzwilliam Museum Cambridge and one in the National Gallery of Scotland, see G. Smith, Thomas Girtin, An Online Catalogue, TG1081, TG1082. These were executed from an on-the-spot colour sketch (TG1080) dating from Girtin's first independent tour to the northern counties and the Scottish Borders in 1796. The view, taken from the north bank of the river Tyne, looking west, was well calculated to display a range of the city's main architectural monuments.

The watercolour is one of four subjects studied on Girtin's 1796 tour that were engraved by John Walker (active 1776–1802) for his publication The Copper-Plate Magazine, the engraving of Newcastle is dated 1 July 1797. The print follows the finished watercolour closely, except it shows the steeple of the church of All Saints as completed. When Girtin made his sketch the steeple was not yet finished, which confirms that Girtin worked from an on-the-spot sketch rather than copying another source. As the steeple was so close to being completed Walker chose to show it in its final form - his engraving dating from just a few months later. Interestingly the present watercolour follows Girtin's finished watercolours and not the engraving.

In 1854, as the construction of the Notre-Dame Cathedral neared completion, the Abbot established an annual procession in which a statue of the Virgin Mary was carried through the town. The tradition is rooted in the legend of "Our Lady of Boulogne," which dates back to the year 633. According to the story, a mysterious boat bearing a radiant image of the Virgin appeared in the estuary of the river Liane.

The painting shown here is a replica of William Powell Frith's 1874 Royal Academy exhibit. Frith had first visited Boulogne during a holiday in 1871, and in his autobiography he wrote: "The Procession of Boulogne' then occupied my thoughts and time, and my diary records my struggles with the subject... My model for the principal figure was the Abbé Toursel, a very delightful old priest, who, with his nephew, proved the most patient of sitters; and I was fortunate enough to find other good French models."
Frith's two eldest daughters, Annabella and Jane Ellen, appear kneeling on the right side of the painting. They are easily recognisable as the same sitters featured in his earlier work The Fair Toxophilites (1872).

William-Adolphe Bougereau was born in La Rochelle in 1825. Studying at the École des Beaux-Arts in Pairs, he dedicated his life and career to traditional subjects, infusing classical subjects with a sense of real-life beauty, earning him a life-time of critical acclaim. Bourgereau was awarded the Grand Prix de Rome in 1850 and spent the following three years at the Villa de Medicis. Here he was inspired by themes from Classical Antiquity, as well as Italian masters of the Renaissance such as Raphael. It was during this period that Bourgereau coined his tableaux de fantasie, which would appear frequently in his oeuvre and provided the perfect vehicle for the artist's dedication to the creation of beautiful forms and harmonious colours. The Antiquity provided innumerable Venuses, nymphs, muses and allegories, all of whom take centre stage in Bourgereau's work.

In a lecture given at the Institut de France in 1885, the artist said, 'Antiquity reveals what an inexhaustible source of variegated inspiration nature is. With a relatively restricted number of elements - a head, a bust, arms, a torso, legs, a stomach - how many masterpieces she has made! Then why seek out other things to paint or sculpt?' (W. Bouguereau, 'Discours de M. Bouguereau', in Séance publique annuelle des cinqs Academies du 24 Octobre 1885, Institut de France).

There was no end to William Bouguereau's artistic career, and he was still sending paintings to the Paris Salon a year before his death. An anonymous contributor to the Fine Arts Journal wrote: 'Even now, in spite of failing health he works incessantly. Only the other day I found him painting with boyish enthusiasm, full of joy over his new picture'. (Anonymous author, quoted in Bartoli and Ross, op. cit., p. 427). Bouguereau himself declared, 'People say I paint to make money; it's not true. I don't need to make money; my family and I have more than we need. But I have to paint all the time, as I see, feel and know. That's all there is to it. People pay a lot for my paintings, and I'm not complaining; it proves that my work is still appreciated. But if they didn't sell as well as they do, it wouldn't stop me from making them' (quoted in Montréal, Musée des Beaux Arts, William Bouguereau, 1984, p. 68). It is unsurprising therefore that Réflexion offered here and painted in the year of the artist's death, still attains a level of excellence and quality upon which his career and reputation were based. Depicting a young, dark-haired model seated on a simple stone bench before a draped background, she is in turn draped in a beautiful, emerald chiton-like vestment, her arms outstretched, one breast exposed. Even as late as the 1900s, Bouguereau's relish for feminine beauty remained undiminished. Not unusually for Bougereau's composition, the model's steady gaze is directed straight out of the picture plane, drawing the viewer into the painting. The lack of background or 'story' serves to heighten the beauty of the sitter, as it presents very little to detract from the model herself. Bouguereau used this same backdrop in Jeune prêtresse (1902, Memorial Art Gallery of the University of Rochester, New York) to similar effect.

Literature:

Payne, Christiana, John Brett, Pre-Raphaelite Landscape Painter, Cat. No. 635

This work is one of a pair (the other being Dawn off Lundy Island, unlocated since 1899) presumably commissioned by Brett's greatest patron, Alfred Morrison, and is based on sketches made in September 1867. (see Brett sketchbook 26 at the National Maritime Museum, Greenwich). It takes its place among other brilliantly vivid studies of the sea painted by the artist for Morrison, of which the largest and most important is Christmas Morning 1866, now in the Russell-Cotes Art Gallery, Bournemouth. It hung in the picture gallery of Morrison's Wiltshire property, Fonthill House. A photograph (c.1890) of this gallery, in which the picture can be clearly identified, is illustrated as plate 9 in The Rise of the Nouveaux Riches by J. Mordaunt Crook. It was sold, along with the rest of his large collection, after Morrison's death in 1899.

The frame, although clearly old, is unlikely to be the original. If it were, one would expect to find the code for the Christie's sale of 1899 to be stencilled on the back. It would also not refer to the artist as ARA, a status Brett achieved only in 1881. It is most likely that the work was reframed by Sampson after he acquired it in 1899.

SARAH BIFFIN (BRITISH 1784-1850)
PORTRAIT OF SAMUEL WILLIAMS SENIOR, AGED 90
Watercolour
Inscribed and dated '1833 June 12 Samuel William Snr - Aged 90 yrs- Presents this likeness to Susanna Wife of John Williams' (verso); the original frame also later inscribed ' Painted by Miss Biffin without hands or feet' (verso)
14 x 10cm (5½ x 3¾ in.)

Born with phocomelia, Sarah Biffin's remarkable miniature paintings were created using only her mouth. Biffin's skill and dogged self-promotion allowed her to develop a successful enterprise; her clients included Willem Frederik, Prince of Orange and Princess Augusta Sophia, the daughter of King George III. The Berkshire Chronicle reported, on 4 June 1842, the death of 'Samuel Williams Senior, many years coach proprietor of this town' (Twyford), it has been suggested that this could be a candidate for the sitter in the present lot.

SIR FRANCIS GRANT (BRITISH 1803-1878)
PORTRAIT OF JAMES BATEMAN OF BIDDULPH GRANGE (1811-1897)
Pastel
37 x 27cm (14½ x 10½ in.)

James Bateman (1811-1897) was a British landowner and accomplished horticulturist. He developed Biddulph Grange after moving there around 1840, from nearby Knypersley Hall, Staffordshire. He created the famous gardens at Biddulph Grange with the help of his botanist wife, Maria (née Sybilla) and his friend, the marine painter Edward William Cooke. The gardens are a rare survival of the interim period between Capability Brown's landscaped garden and the High Victorian Style.

From 1865-70 Bateman was the founding president of the North Staffordshire Field Club, a large local organisation which researched local natural history and folklore.

William Kelly Simpson (1928 - 2017) was married to Marilyn Ellen Milton (1931-1980), who was the daughter of David M. Milton (1900-1976) and Abigail Rockefeller (1903-1976), also known as "Babs".

Marilyn was a granddaughter of philanthropists John Davison Rockefeller Jr. (1874-1960) and Abby Aldrich Rockefeller (1874-1948).

Through his marriage to Marilyn, William Kelly Simpson inherited several works of art from the collection of Abby Aldrich Rockefeller, which included works by Édouard Vuillard and Henri Matisse, as well as the present lot by Joseph Pennell offered here.

A PRIVATE COLLECTION OF WORKS BY ARCHIBALD THORBURN | LOTS 309-317

Dreweatts is delighted to be offering a wonderful group of nine watercolours by Archibald Thorburn (1860 -1935) which come to the market for the first time in over sixty years. Dating from 1894 to 1928, they span over thirty years of the artist's career, demonstrating a life-long passion for British birds and wildlife.

Archibald Thorburn was a Scottish born artist who specialised in ornithological watercolours. His father, Robert Thorburn (1818 -1885), was a leading miniature painter as favourite of Queen Victoria, and it was from him that Archibald received most of his early training. He also studied under the animal painter Jospeh Wolf.

Thorburn regularly exhibited at the Royal Academy between 1880 and 1900, and on the death of his father in 1885, moved fom Scotland, first to London before eventually settling in Hascombe, Surrey in 1902, with his new wife Constance Mudie. The woodland around his new home provided an abundance of wildlife, and many of his pheasant and woodcock pictures were conceived here.

However, it was in his native Scotland that Thorburn was most happy, and he returned each year to paint, with his favourite sketching spot being the Forest of Gaick, near Kingussie in Invernesshire.

Thorburn's works were widely reproduced in numerous publications. His precise detail and freshness of composition quickly led to him becoming the principle illustrator for many sporting and natural history authors. Coloured Figures efthe Birds in the British Islands, arguably the most notable commission of his career came from Lord Lilford in 1887, which comprised a project which contained almost 270 watercolours and established his reputation as the leading bird artist of the day.

In 1899, Thorburn designed the first Christmas card for the Royal Society of the Protection of Birds (RSPB) and continued to do so every year until his death until 1935. In 1927, he was elected Vice President of the RSPB in recognition of his services on behalf of bird preservation.

In addition to this Thorburn illustrated numerous other sporting and natural history books and was teacher to Murray Dixon and Philip Rickman.

Today, despite being over one hundred years old, Thorburn's pictures remain just as bright and fresh as when painted, timeless in their accuracy, charm and appeal; a guarantee of quality distinguishing itself from many other artists in the field.

MR. THOMAS EWART'S BAY RACEHORSE HELD BY A TRAINER IN THE GROUNDS OF HIS COUNTRY HOUSE, EVERTON

Charles Towne spent the beginning of his career in Liverpool, making his first equestrian portraits in the early 1790s. Towne was influenced by the work of the Liverpool-born painter George Stubbs (1724-1806), whose Haymakers and Reapers Towne copied from memory in 1787. As in the paintings of Stubbs, Mr Thomas Ewart's racehorse is shown in noble profile, as if cut on a Roman cameo, emphasizing his fine crest and alert stance. He rolls an intelligent eye towards the spectator and slightly bares his teeth, a picture of controlled power. Like most thoroughbreds, this horse probably descended from the Darley Arabian, sent from Aleppo to England in 1704 by Thomas Darley, an Aleppo merchant and son of a Yorkshire squire ⁽¹⁾. Interbred with Turkoman horses from the steppes and English and Irish strains, the Darley Arabian's descendants formed the bedrock of the racing thoroughbreds in a sport that was flourishing by the 1790s.

Horse and trainer are set by Ewart's country house, which seems to have been in Everton, north of Liverpool's town centre. Rolling countryside in the 1790s, Everton was increasingly peppered with the elegant Georgian mansions of rich merchants, such as the house depicted here. Towne has set the scene within a landscape of great sensitivity, featuring rocky outcrops falling towards a glassy lake, in which trees are reflected. Over everything arches a magnificent sunrise, fretted with clouds.

The present composition derives from a now-lost original painting that was once in the collection of William Wildeman. This original work was engraved by Benjamin Green and published in 1774 (see C. Lennox-Boyd, R. Dixon, and T. Clayton, George Stubbs: The Complete Engraved Works, Culham, Abingdon, 1989, p. 142, no. 37). Notably, the orientation of the present canvas is reversed in relation to the print, suggesting it may have been copied directly from the original painting rather than from the engraving.

PORTRAIT OF A WATER SPANIEL IN A LANDSCAPE
Oil on canvas

Dr John Caius (1510-1573), physician to Queen Elizabeth I, naturalist and founder of Gonville and Caius College Cambridge, describes water spaniels in his De Canibus Britannicus (1570) as 'That kinde of dogge whose service is required in fowling upon the water'^[1]. They were known to be excellent divers which could retrieve lost arrows as well as fallen birds. A Norfolk man, Caius may well have grown up fighting duck on the Broads. Shakespeare in Two Gentlemen of Verona

(c.1589) has Launce say of his love 'She hath more qualities than a water-spaniel', an indication of the relative esteem in which dogs and women were held in Tudor England (and beyond).

English water spaniels were probably an adaptation of land-based hunting spaniels, a breed thought originally to have come from Spain, hence their name. They had water-resistant curly coats, sturdy frames, long legs and large feet, useful for swimming. The Irish water dog, with denser curls all over the body, was only developed as a breed in the 1830s. Sadly, the English water spaniel had declined in popularity by the early twentieth century and does not exist as a separate breed today.

DOM PEDRO I CONDUCTING A MILITARY REVIEW
Oil on canvas
78 x 127cm (30½ x 50 in.)

It is believed that the main figure in this painting is Dom Pedro I, painted around the time that he returned to Portugal to fight his brother. Pedro was the son of Dom Joas VI who fled to Brazil in 1806, with his whole court, in an attempt to escape Napoleon. He returned to Portugal in 1816, and left Pedro as the Prince Regent. In 1822, Pedro declared Brazil's independence and himself as Emperor. He left in 1829, to regain his throne in Portugal in response to his younger brother's self-declaration as King, upon their father's death.

Please see Conditions of Business and Conditions of Sale on the following pages.
Dreweatts & Dreweatts 1759 are trading names of Dreweatts 1759 Ltd. Dreweatts 1759 Ltd is registered in England, company number: 10758982, registered office: C/O Bishop Fleming LLP, 10 Temple Back, Bristol, BS1 6FL.

IMPORTANT NOTICES

BUYING AT DREWEATTS
There are several ways you can bid at a Dreweatts auction; in person, by leaving a commission or absentee bid, on the telephone where available and live via the internet – please make arrangements before the sale. THIS NOTICE APPLIES ONLY TO A PERSON WHO WISHES TO BID IN PERSON, OR BY LEAVING A COMMISSION OR ABSENTEE BID, AT A DREWEATTS PUBLIC AUCTION. For bidding at an online auction or for online bidding at a public auction please see our Online Auction Terms published on our website at www.dreweatts.com.

BIDDING IN PERSON
If intending to buy you are required to register your name and details at reception prior to the commencement of the auction. You will be required to provide a proof of identity and address to register for bidding. You will then be allocated a bidding number, which you use when bidding for an item.

COMMISSION BIDS
Dreweatts will execute bids on your behalf if you are unable to attend the sale. Commission or absentee bids are accepted either directly at reception, or can be sent by post, fax, email, telephone or via the website: www.dreweatts.com.

Dreweatts will add these bids to the auctioneers’ sale book and will undertake to purchase the lots on your behalf as cheaply as allowed by other bids and reserves. If two buyers submit identical commission bids Dreweatts may prefer the first bid received.
Dreweatts does not accept liability for failing to execute commission bids, or for any errors or omissions.

CONDITION
Bidders must satisfy themselves as to the condition of each lot. Condition reports are available on request – see the Conditions of Business at the back of this catalogue forming part of these Auction Terms and Conditions for more information regarding condition reports. Requests for condition reports must be submitted by 4pm on the day prior to the auction; condition reports may be available alongside the lot description on the online catalogue at: www.dreweatts.com.

COMMISSION CHARGES
All purchases are subject to a buyer’s premium, which is charged per lot at 26% of the hammer price (31.2% including VAT) up to and including £20,000, 25% (30% including VAT) of the hammer price from £20,001 up to and including £500,000, 20% (24% including VAT) of the hammer price from £500,001 up to and including £1,000,000 and 12.5% of the hammer price (15% including VAT) in excess of £1,000,000. A theta symbol (θ) indicates that the lot is a zero rated item and therefore not subject to VAT on the buyer’s premium. This applies to bound books (manuscripts and printed), unframed maps and albums. In the event the lot has a dagger (†) beside the lot number in the catalogue, this indicates that the lot is owned by an entity or company required to pay VAT (generally not an Antique Dealer, as they operate under a dealers margin scheme). VAT is payable at 20% on the Hammer Price. Lots marked with a double dagger (‡) (presently a reduced rate of 5%) or Ω (presently at standard rate of 20%) have been imported from outside the UK under Temporary Admission regime and therefore the buyer must pay the import VAT at the appropriate rate on the duty inclusive hammer price.

PAYMENT
Payment will be accepted, if you are a successful bidder, by debit card issued in the name of the Buyer by a UK bank and registered to a UK billing address; by all major UK issued credit cards issued in the name of the Buyer and registered to a UK billing address with the exception of Diners Club; by bank transfer direct into our bank account, Bank Details: NatWest, 30 Market Place, Newbury, Berkshire RG14 5AG. Account Name: Dreweatts 1759 Ltd. A/C: 62412949, Sort Code: 60-15-07, BIC: NWBKGB2L, IBAN: GB21NWBK60150762412949. The name of the bank account holder should match the name of the buyer. First time buyers who are not present at the saleroom are requested to pay by bank transfer.

Y CITES REGULATIONS
Please note that lots marked with the symbol (Y) in this catalogue may be subject to CITES Regulations when exported. Relevant CITES Regulations may be found at www.gov.uk/guidance/cites-imports-and-exports.

COLLECTIONS, SHIPPING AND STORAGE
Goods will be released on receipt of payment of all sales charges. Please check the collection point of your lot prior to arrival.
Unless otherwise stated below, purchases are available for collection from Dreweatts Donnington Priory salerooms from Monday to Friday (9am-5pm) by appointment only.

Due to a busy schedule of sales, we are unable to store sold items at the salerooms. All items not collected within 4 working days of the sale (by 4pm) will be removed to Sackville-West Moving & Storing, Andover (SP10 3SA) and subject to storage charges: a one-off fee of £20 plus a daily £3 storage fee per lot per part or full day thereafter (charges subject to 20% VAT). Collection is available by appointment, Monday – Friday (9am–4:30pm). All storage charges are the responsibility of the purchaser, billed directly by Sackville-West and are payable prior to collection. Contact: Sackville-West: tel: +44 (0) 2080 909988 | email: office@sackvillewest.co.uk.

A list of our suggested shippers is available on the Dreweatts website. Third party collections are permitted on receipt of authorisation from the invoiced buyer. To arrange a collection, contact Dreweatts: tel: +44 (0) 1635 553553 | email: collections@dreweatts.com.

FURTHER INFORMATION
The colours printed in this catalogue are not necessarily a true reflection of the actual item. All weights and measures given in the catalogue should be regarded as approximate.

VALUATION SERVICES

For directions to Donnington Priory, please see our website: www.dreweatts.com.
Parking is available at Donnington Priory in two car parks on either side of the saleroom.

INFORMATION FOR BUYERS AT PUBLIC AUCTIONS

1. INTRODUCTION. The following notes are intended to assist Bidders and Buyers, particularly those inexperienced or new to our salerooms. All of our auctions and sales are conducted on our printed Auction Terms and Conditions, including these Conditions of Sale and Business, which are readily available for inspection and normally accompany catalogues. Our staff will be happy to help you if there is anything you do not fully understand.

Any particular auction and/or any particular lot in an auction may be subject to different or additional terms which will be published in our auction catalogue. All auctions and sales of wines and spirits, jewellery, watches and clocks are subject to the special terms set out in the relevant Notices in relation to those items published in our auction catalogue and, in the event of any conflict or inconsistency, those special terms prevail over any other terms in our Auction Terms and Conditions. By bidding at the auction, you agree to be bound by these terms.

2. AGENCY. As auctioneers we usually act as agents for the seller whose identity, for reasons of confidentiality, is not normally disclosed. Accordingly if you buy at auction your contract for the item or items purchased is with the seller and not with us as the auctioneer.

3. ESTIMATES. Estimates are designed to help buyers gauge what sort of sum might be involved for the purchase of a particular lot. Estimates may change and should not be thought of as the sale price. The lower estimate may represent the reserve price and certainly will not be below it. Estimates do not include the Buyer's Premium or VAT (where chargeable). Estimates are prepared some time before the sale and may be altered by announcement before the sale. They are in no sense definitive.

4. BUYER'S PREMIUM. The Conditions of Sale forming part of our Auction Terms and Conditions require the buyer to pay a buyer's premium on the hammer price of each lot purchased. The buyer's premium is 26% of the hammer price up to and including £20,000, 25% of the hammer price from £20,001 up to and including £500,000, 20% of the hammer price from £500,001 up to and including £1,000,000, and 12.5% of the hammer price in excess of £1,000,000. VAT at the prevailing rate of 20% is added to buyer's premium and additional charges as defined below.

5. VAT. A theta symbol (θ) indicates that the lot is a zero rated item and therefore not subject to VAT on the buyer's premium. This applies to bound books (manuscripts and printed), unframed maps and albums. A dagger symbol (†) indicates that VAT is payable by the purchaser at the standard rate (presently 20%) on the hammer price as well as being an element in the buyer's premium. This imposition of VAT is likely to be because the seller is registered for VAT within the United Kingdom and is not operating the Dealers Margin Scheme. A double dagger (§) indicates that the lot is being sold whilst subject to temporary importation and that import VAT at the reduced rate (currently 5%) calculated on the hammer price is due. (Ω) Indicates that the lot has been imported from outside the UK and that import VAT at the standard rate (currently 20%) calculated on the hammer price (inclusive of any applicable duty) is due. Lots offered subject to temporary importation (§ or Ω) require relevant customs procedure to be completed prior to the property leaving Dreweatts' premises or being exported. Dreweatts will issue the instruction to a customs broker or shipper upon receipt of full payment for the lots. The import VAT charged for lots with symbols † or Ω can be refunded if Dreweatts is instructed to re-export the property or if the VAT liability is transferred to another Temporary Admission authorisation. Lots which appear without the above symbols indicate that no VAT is payable on the hammer price; this is because such lots are sold using the Auctioneers Margin Scheme and it should be noted that the VAT included within the buyer's premium is not recoverable as input tax.

6. DESCRIPTION AND CONDITION. Condition reports are provided on our website or upon request. The absence of a report does not imply that a lot is without imperfections. The detail in a report will reflect the estimated value of the lot. Large numbers of such requests received shortly before the sale may mean that reports cannot be provided for all lots. Members of staff are not trained restorers or conservators and, particularly for higher value lots, you should obtain an opinion from such a professional. Dreweatts is not liable for damage to gilded picture frames, plaster picture frames or picture frame glass; if a Lot is or becomes dangerous, we may dispose of it without notice to bidders in advance in any manner we see fit and will be under no liability for doing so. We recommend that you always view a lot in person.

We are dependent on information provided by the seller about a lot and whilst we may inspect lots and act reasonably in taking a general view about them we are normally unable to carry out a detailed examination and frequently no examination of lots in order to ascertain their condition in the way in which it would be wise for a buyer to do. Intending buyers have ample opportunity for inspection of goods and, therefore, accept responsibility for inspecting and investigating lots in which they may be interested and the corresponding risk should they not do so. Please note carefully the exclusion of liability for the condition of lots contained in the Conditions of Sale. Neither the seller nor we, as the auctioneers, accept any responsibility for their condition. In particular, mechanical objects of any age are not guaranteed to be in working order. However, in so far as we have examined the goods and make a representation about their condition in the auction catalogue, we shall be liable for any defect which is not reflected in that representation and which that examination ought to have revealed to the auctioneer but which would not have been revealed to the buyer had the buyer examined the goods. Additionally, in specified circumstances lots misdescribed because they are 'deliberate forgeries' may be returned and repayment made. There is a 3 week time limit. (The expression 'deliberate forgery' is defined in our Conditions of Sale).

7. ELECTRICAL GOODS. These are sold as 'antiques' only and if bought for use must be checked over for compliance with safety regulations by a qualified electrician before use.

8. EXPORT OF GOODS. Buyers intending to export goods should ascertain (a) whether an export licence is required and (b) whether there is any specific prohibition on importing goods of that character because, e.g. they may contain prohibited materials such as ivory. Ask us if you need help.

Private overseas buyers can only receive goods free of VAT or have the VAT amount refunded if Dreweatts acts as exporter in relation to the sale, the goods are exported within 3 months of the sale and Dreweatts is in possession of adequate export documents. The VAT refunds are available for transactions exceeding £2,500. If you arrange for the goods to be picked up/delivered to you directly we will charge UK VAT at the appropriate rate and no refund will be available. Please note, buyers are responsible for completing the importation procedures as well as the payment of any relevant duty/VAT payable on importation into the destination country.

Where the purchase has been made in the business or trading name, VAT refund will be available on proof of export provided within 3 months of the sale.

9. BIDDING. Bidders will be required to register before the sale commences and lots will be invoiced to the name and address on the sale registration form. Bidders are required to provide a government issued identity document and a proof of address. Please enquire in advance about our arrangements for telephone bidding.

10. COMMISSION BIDDING. Commission bids may be left with the auctioneers indicating the maximum amount to be bid excluding buyer's premium. Dreweatts will add these bids to the auctioneers' sale book and they will be executed as cheaply as possible having regard to the reserve (if any) and competing bids. If two buyers submit identical commission bids the auctioneers may prefer the first bid received. Please enquire in advance about our arrangements for the leaving of commission bids by telephone or fax. Dreweatts does not accept liability for failing to execute commission bids, or for any errors or omissions.

11. METHODS OF PAYMENT. Payment will be accepted, if you are a successful bidder, by debit card issued in the name of the Buyer by a UK bank and registered to a UK billing address; by all major UK issued credit cards issued in the name of the Buyer and registered to a UK billing address with the exception of Diners Club; by bank transfer direct into our bank account, Bank Details: NatWest, 30 Market Place, Newbury, Berkshire RG14 5AG. Account Name: Dreweatts 1759 Ltd. A/C: 62412949, Sort Code: 60-15-07, BIC: NWBKGB2L, IBAN: GB21NWBK60150762412949. The name of the bank account holder should match the name of the buyer. First time buyers who are not present at the saleroom are requested to pay by bank transfer.

12. COLLECTION AND STORAGE. Please note what the Conditions of Sale state about collection and storage. It is important that goods are paid for and collected promptly. Any delay may involve the buyer in paying storage charges.

13. λ ARTIST'S RESALE RIGHT (DROIT DE SUITE) ROYALTY CHARGES. Under Artist's Resale Right (ARR) UK art market professionals (including, but not limited to, auctioneers, art dealers and galleries) are required to collect a royalty for works of art produced by qualifying artists each time a work is resold during the artist's lifetime and for a period up to 70 years following the artist's death. This payment is only applicable to qualifying works of art when the hammer price reaches or exceeds £1,000. The charge is calculated on the portions of the hammer price according to the following rate bands:

Royalty Rate	Portion of the hammer
4%	up to £50,000
3%	between £50,000.01 and £200,000
1%	between £200,000.01 and £350,000
0.5%	between £350,000.01 and £500,000
0.25%	in excess of £500,000

The royalty charge is capped at £12,500 per artwork. All royalty charges are passed on, no handling costs or additional fees with respect to these charges will be retained by Dreweatts. The ARR charge is VAT exempt. All items in this catalogue that are marked with λ are potentially qualifying items. The charge will be added to the buyer's invoice and must be paid before items can be released to the buyer.

TERMS OF CONSIGNMENT FOR SELLERS IN PUBLIC AUCTIONS

The sale of goods at our public auctions and a seller's relationship with us are governed by our Auction Terms and Conditions including these Terms of Consignment for Sellers in Public Auctions and our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions. Any particular auction and/or any particular lot in an auction may be subject to different or additional terms which will be published in our auction catalogue or separately announced prior to the auction. All auctions and sales of wines and spirits, jewellery, watches and clocks are subject to the special terms set out in the relevant Notices in relation to those items published in our auction catalogue and, in the event of any conflict or inconsistency, those special terms prevail over any other terms in our Auction Terms and Conditions. Please note that our Auction Terms and Conditions including these Terms of Consignment for Sellers in Public Auctions and our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions relate to auctions held in our salerooms and we have separate terms and conditions for our online auctions.

If you, or another person acting on your behalf, provide goods to us to sell on your behalf at one of our auctions this signifies that you agree to and will comply with our Auction Terms and Conditions including these Terms of Consignment for Sellers in Public Auctions and our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions.

1. INTERPRETATION. In these Terms the words 'you', 'yours', etc. refer to the Seller and if the consignment of goods to us is made by an agent or otherwise on the Seller's behalf we assume that the Seller has authorised the consignment and that the consignor has the Seller's authority to contract. All obligations that apply to the Seller under these Terms of Consignment for Sellers in Public Auctions shall apply to the owner of the goods and their agent jointly and separately. Similarly the words 'we', 'us', etc. refer to the Auctioneers.

2. WARRANTY. The Seller warrants that possession in the lots can be transferred to the Buyer with good and marketable title, free from any third party right and encumbrances, claims or potential claims. The Seller has provided all information concerning the item's ownership, condition and provenance, attribution, authenticity, import or export history and of any concerns expressed by third parties concerning the same.

3. ALL COMMISSIONS. and fees are subject to VAT at the prevailing rate.

4. COMMISSION. is charged to sellers and all selling terms are available from our salerooms.

5. REMOVAL COSTS. Items for sale must be consigned to the saleroom by any stated deadline and at your expense. We may be able to assist you with this process but any liability incurred to a carrier for haulage charges is solely your responsibility.

6. LOSS AND DAMAGE OF GOODS

(a) Loss and Damage Warranty - Dreweatts is not authorised by the FCA to provide insurance to its clients, and does not do so. However Dreweatts for its own protection assumes liability for property consigned to it at the lower pre-sale estimate until the hammer falls. To justify accepting liability, Dreweatts makes a charge of 1.5% of the hammer price plus VAT, subject to a minimum charge of £1.50, or if unsold 1.5% of our lower estimate. The liability assumed by Dreweatts shall be limited to the lower pre-sale estimate or the hammer price if the lot is sold. Dreweatts is not liable for damage to gilded picture frames, plaster picture frames or picture frame glass; if the Lot is or becomes dangerous, we may dispose of it without notice to you in advance in any manner we see fit and will be under no liability for doing so.

(b) If the owner of the goods consigned instructs us in writing not to take such action, the goods then remain entirely at the owner's risk unless and until the property in them passes to the Buyer or they are collected by or on behalf of the owner, and clause 6 (a) is inapplicable.

7. ILLUSTRATIONS AND PHOTOGRAPHS. The cost of any illustrations or photographs is borne by you. The copyright in respect of such illustrations and photographs shall be the property of us, the auctioneers, as is the text of the catalogue.

8. MINIMUM BIDS AND OUR DISCRETION. Goods will normally be offered subject to a reserve agreed between us before the sale in accordance with clause 9. We may sell Lots below the reserve provided we account to you for the same sale proceeds as you would have received had the reserve been the hammer price. If you specifically give us a "discretion" we may accept a bid of up to 10% below the formal reserve.

9. RESERVES

(a) You are entitled to place prior to the auction a reserve on any lot consigned, being the minimum hammer price at which that lot may be sold. Reserves must be reasonable and we may decline to offer goods which in our opinion would be subject to an unreasonably high reserve (in which case goods carry the storage and loss and damage warranty charges stipulated in these Terms of Consignment).

(b) A reserve once set cannot be changed except with our consent.

(c) Where a reserve has been set which we consider unreasonably high, an unsold charge will be payable in the event that the lots fails to sell, being the agreed selling terms calculated on the reserve, LDW at 1.5% and any photographic charges.

(d) Where a reserve has been placed only we may bid on your behalf and only up to the reserve (if any) and you may in no circumstances bid personally.

(e) Reserves are not usually accepted for lots expected to realise below £100.

10. ELECTRICAL ITEMS. These are subject to detailed statutory safety controls. Where such items are accepted for sale you accept responsibility for the cost of testing by external contractors. Goods not certified as safe by an electrician (unless antiques) will not be accepted for sale. They must be removed at your expense on your being notified. We reserve the right to dispose of unsafe goods as refuse, at your expense.

11. SOFT FURNISHINGS. The sale of soft furnishings is strictly regulated by statute law in the interests of fire safety. Goods found to infringe safety regulations will not be offered and must be removed at your expense. We reserve the right to dispose of unsafe goods as refuse, at your expense. The rights of disposal referred to in clause 10 and 11 are subject to the provisions of The Torts (Interference with Goods) Act 1977.

12. DESCRIPTION. Please assist us with accurate information as to the provenance, lawful import etc. of goods where this is relevant. There is strict liability for the accuracy of descriptions under modern consumer legislation and in some circumstances responsibility lies with sellers if inaccuracies occur. We will assume that you have approved the catalogue description of your lots and that your lots match those descriptions unless informed to the contrary. Where we are obliged to return the price to the buyer when the lot is a deliberate forgery under Condition 15 of the Conditions of Sale and we have accounted to you for the proceeds of sale you agree to reimburse us the sale proceeds and in any event within 7 days of our written notice to do so.

13. UNSOLD. If an item is unsold it may at our discretion be re-offered at a future sale. Where in our opinion an item is unsaleable you must collect such items from the saleroom promptly on being so informed. Otherwise, storage charges may be incurred. We reserve the right to charge for storage in these circumstances at a reasonable daily rate.

14. WITHDRAWN AND BOUGHT IN ITEMS. These are liable to incur a charge of 15% commission, 1.5 % Loss and Damage Warranty and any other costs incurred including but not limited to illustration and restoration fees all of these charges being subject to VAT on being bought in or withdrawn after being catalogued.

15. CONDITIONS OF SALE. You agree that all goods will be sold on our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions. In particular you undertake that you have the right to sell the goods either as owner or agent for the owner with good and marketable title and free and clear of any third party rights or claims. You undertake to compensate us and any buyer or third party for all losses liabilities, costs and expenses suffered or incurred arising out of or in connection with any breach of this undertaking. We will also, at our discretion, and as far as practicable, confirm that an item consigned for sale does not appear on the Art Loss register, which is administered by an independent third party.

16. DUE DILIGENCE CHECKS AND ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING PROCEDURES. Under the money laundering regulations in force we are required to carry out relevant due diligence checks. This includes verifying the identity of all customers we transact with as well as any beneficial owners on behalf of whom they may transact. Vendors who are unable to or refuse to supply required identification documents and proof of address will not be able to consign to Dreweatts auctions. Copies of customer due diligence checks will be stored for as long as it is necessary to satisfy legal requirements in an appropriate storage facility, which for the avoidance of doubt may include storage solely in electronic form. We reserve the right to withhold the monies owed until the vendor provides the information necessary to complete the anti-money laundering checks.

17. AUTHORITY TO DEDUCT COMMISSION AND EXPENSES AND RETAIN PREMIUM AND INTEREST

(a) You authorise us to deduct commission at the stated rate and all expenses incurred for your account from the hammer price and consent to our right to retain beneficially the premium paid by the buyer in accordance with our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions and any interest earned on the sale proceeds until the date of settlement.

(b) In case of lots unsold at auction you authorise us at our discretion to reoffer such lots and negotiate a sale within seven days of the auction date, in which case the same charges will be payable as if such lots had been sold at auction and so far as appropriate these Terms apply.

18. WAREHOUSING. We disclaim all liability for goods delivered to our saleroom without sufficient sale instructions and reserve the right to make minimum warehousing charge of £10 per lot per day. Unsold lots are subject to the same charges if you do not remove them within a reasonable time of notification. If not removed within three weeks we reserve the right to sell them and defray charges from any net proceeds of sale or at your expense to consign them to the local authority for disposal.

19. SETTLEMENT. After sale settlement of the net sum due to you normally takes place within 28 days of the sale unless the buyer has not paid for the goods or the checks necessary under the current Money Laundering Regulations have not been completed. In this case no settlement will then be made but we will take your instructions in the light of our Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions. You authorise any sums owed by you to us on other transactions to be deducted from the sale proceeds. You must note the liability to reimburse the proceeds of sale to us as under the circumstances provided for in Condition 12 above. You should therefore bear this potential liability in mind before parting with the proceeds of sale until the expiry of 28 days from the date of sale.

CONDITIONS OF SALE FOR PUBLIC AUCTIONS

Dreweatts carries on business with bidders, buyers and all those present in the auction room prior to or in connection with a sale by auction at our salerooms on our Auction Terms and Conditions or Public Auctions including these Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions and all bidders, buyers and others participating in a public auction accept that these terms apply to the exclusion of any terms and conditions contained in any of those person's own documents even if the same purport to provide that that person's own or some other terms prevail. Any particular public auction and/or any particular lot in an auction may be subject to different or additional terms which will be published in our online auction catalogue. Please note that our Auction Terms and Conditions including these Conditions of Sale for Public Auctions relate to auctions held in one of our salerooms and we have separate terms and conditions for our online auctions.

1. DEFINITIONS
In these Conditions:
(a) "auctioneer" means the firm of Dreweatts or its authorised auctioneer, as appropriate;
(b) "deliberate forgery" means an imitation made with the intention of deceiving as to authorship, origin, date, age, period, culture or source but which is unequivocally described in the catalogue as being the work of a particular creator and which at the date of the sale had a value materially less than it would have had if it had been in accordance with the description;
(c) "hammer price" means the level of bidding reached (at or above any reserve) when the auctioneer brings down the hammer;
(d) "terms of consignment" means the stipulated terms and rates of commission on which Dreweatts accepts instructions from sellers or their agents;
(e) "total amount due" means the hammer price in respect of the lot sold together with any premium, Value Added Tax chargeable and any additional charges payable by a defaulting buyer under these Conditions;
(f) "sale proceeds" means the net amount due to the seller, being the hammer price of the lot sold less commission at the stated rate, Value Added Tax chargeable and any other amounts due to us by the seller in whatever capacity and however arising;
(g) "You", "Your", etc. refer to the buyer as identified in Condition 2.
(h) The singular includes the plural and vice versa as appropriate.
2. BIDDING PROCEDURES AND THE BUYER
(a) Bidders are required to register their particulars before bidding by completing a sale registration form and to satisfy any security arrangements before entering the auction room to view or bid;
(b) Under the money laundering regulations in force we are required to verify the identity of all customers we transact with as well as any beneficiaries on behalf of whom they may transact. Customers who are unable to or refuse to supply required identification documents and proof of address will not be able to bid in Dreweatts auctions. Copies of customer due diligence checks will be stored for as long as it is necessary to satisfy legal requirements in an appropriate storage facility which for the avoidance of doubt may include storage solely in electronic form;
(c) the maker of the highest bid accepted by the auctioneer conducting the sale shall be the buyer at the hammer price and any dispute about a bid shall be settled at the auctioneer's absolute discretion by reoffering the Lot during the course of the auction or otherwise. The auctioneer shall act reasonably in exercising this discretion.
(d) Bidders shall be deemed to act as principals;
(e) Our right to bid on behalf of the seller is expressly reserved up to the amount of any reserve and the right to refuse any bid is also reserved.
3. INCREMENTS. Bidding increments shall be at the auctioneer's sole discretion.
4. THE PURCHASE PRICE. The buyer shall pay the purchase price together with a premium thereon of 30% which shall include VAT on the premium at the rate imposed by law. The buyer will also be liable for any royalties payable under Droit de Suite as set out under Information for Buyers.
5. VALUE ADDED TAX. Value Added Tax on the hammer price is imposed by law on all items affixed with a dagger (†) or double dagger (‡). Value Added Tax is charged at the appropriate rate prevailing by law at the date of sale and is payable by buyers of relevant Lots. (Please refer to "Information for Buyers" for a brief explanation of the VAT position).
6. PAYMENT
(a) Immediately a Lot is sold you will:
(i) give to us, if requested, proof of identity, and
(ii) pay to us the total amount due or in such other way as is agreed by us.

(b) Any payments by you to us may be applied by us towards any sums owing from you to us on any account whatever without regard to any directions of you or your agent, whether expressed or implied.
(c) In order to comply with money laundering regulations we reserve the right to require proof of source of funds and/ or confirmation of the nature and source of wealth for all receipts of monies from clients directly or from third parties for payments on behalf of clients. Lots will only be released once we have completed necessary checks under the current Money Laundering Regulations.
7. TITLE AND COLLECTION OF PURCHASES
(a) The ownership of any Lots purchased shall not pass to you until you have made payment in full to us of the total amount due.
(b) You shall at your own risk and expense take away any lots that you have purchased and paid for not later than 3 working days following the day of the auction after which you shall be responsible for any removal, storage and insurance charges.
(c) No purchase can be claimed or removed until it has been paid for and we have completed necessary checks under the current Money Laundering Regulations.
8. REMEDIES FOR NON-PAYMENT OR FAILURE TO COLLECT PURCHASES
(a) If any Lot is not paid for in full and taken away in accordance with these Conditions or if there is any other breach of these Conditions, we, as agent for the seller and on our own behalf, shall at our absolute discretion and without prejudice to any other rights we may have, be entitled to exercise one or more of the following rights and remedies:
(i) to proceed against you for damages for breach of contract;
(ii) to rescind the sale of that Lot and/or any other Lots sold by us to you;
(iii) to resell the Lot (by auction or private treaty) in which case you shall be responsible for any resulting deficiency in the total amount due (after crediting any part payment and adding any resale costs). Any surplus so arising shall belong to the seller;
(iv) to remove, store and insure the Lot at your expense and, in the case of storage, either at our premises or elsewhere;
(v) to charge interest at a rate not exceeding 1.5% per month on the total amount due to the extent it remains unpaid for more than 3 working days after the sale;
(vi) to retain that or any other Lot sold to you until you pay the total amount due;
(vii) to reject or ignore bids from you or your agent at future auctions or to impose conditions before any such bids shall be accepted;
(viii) to apply any proceeds of sale of other Lots due or in future becoming due to you towards the settlement of the total amount due and to exercise a lien (that is a right to retain possession of) any of your property in our possession for any purpose until the debt due is satisfied.
(b) We shall, as agent for the seller and on our own behalf pursue these rights and remedies only so far as is reasonable to make appropriate recovery in respect of breach of these conditions.
9. THIRD PARTY LIABILITY. All bidders, buyers and other members of the public on our premises are there at their own risk and must note the lay-out of the accommodation and security arrangements. Accordingly neither the auctioneer nor our employees or agents shall incur liability for death or personal injury or for the safety of the property of persons visiting prior to or at a sale (except in each case as may be required by law by reason of our negligence)
10. COMMISSION BIDS. Whilst prospective buyers are strongly advised to attend the auction and are always responsible for any decision to bid for a particular Lot and shall be assumed to have carefully inspected and satisfied themselves as to its condition, we will if so instructed clearly and in writing execute bids on their behalf. Neither the auctioneer nor our employees or agents shall be responsible for any failure to do so.
Where two or more commission bids at the same level are recorded we reserve the right in our absolute discretion to prefer the first bid so made.
11. WARRANTY OF TITLE AND AVAILABILITY. The seller warrants to the auctioneer and you that the seller is the true owner of the property consigned or is properly authorised by the true owner to consign for sale and is able to transfer good and marketable title to the property free from any third party claims.
Save as expressly set out above, all other warranties, conditions or other terms which might have effect between the Seller and you, or us and you, or be implied or incorporated by statute, common law or otherwise are excluded to the fullest extent permitted by law.
12. AGENCY. The auctioneer normally acts as agent only and disclaims any responsibility for default by sellers or buyers.

13. TERMS OF SALE. The seller acknowledges that Lots are sold subject to the stipulations of these Conditions in their entirety and on the Terms of Consignment for Public Auctions as notified to the consignor at the time of the entry of the Lot.
14. DESCRIPTIONS AND CONDITION
(a) Whilst we seek to describe lots accurately, it may be impractical for us to carry out exhaustive due diligence on each lot. Prospective buyers are given ample opportunities to view and inspect before any sale and they (and any independent experts on their behalf) must satisfy themselves as to the accuracy of any description applied to a lot. Prospective buyers also bid on the understanding that, inevitably, representations or statements by us as to authorship, genuineness, origin, date, age, provenance, condition or estimated selling price involve matters of opinion. We undertake that any such opinion shall be honestly and reasonably held and accept liability for opinions given negligently or fraudulently. Subject to the foregoing neither we the auctioneer nor our employees or agents nor the seller accept liability for the correctness of such opinions and all conditions and warranties, whether relating to description, condition or quality of lots, express, implied or statutory, are hereby excluded. Dreweatts is not liable for damage to gilded picture frames, plaster picture frames or picture frame glass; if the Lot is or becomes dangerous, we may dispose of it without notice to you in advance in any manner we see fit and will be under no liability for doing so. This Condition is subject to the next following Condition concerning deliberate forgeries and applies save as provided for in paragraph 6 "information to buyers".
(b) Private treaty sales made under these Conditions are deemed to be sales by auction for purposes of consumer legislation.
15. FORGERIES. Notwithstanding the preceding Condition, any Lot which proves to be a deliberate forgery (as defined) may be returned to us by you within 21 days of the auction provided it is in the same condition as when bought, and is accompanied by particulars identifying it from the relevant catalogue description and a written statement of defects. If we are satisfied from the evidence presented that the Lot is a deliberate forgery we shall refund the money paid by you for the Lot including any buyer's premium provided that (1) if the catalogue description reflected the accepted view of scholars and experts as at the date of sale or
(2) you personally are not able to transfer a good and marketable title to us, you shall have no rights under this condition.
The right of return provided by this Condition is additional to any right or remedy provided by law or by these Conditions of Sale.
16. PRIVACY NOTICE. We will hold and process any personal data in relation to you in accordance with our current privacy policy, a copy of which is available on our website www.dreweatts.com/privacy-policy/.
GENERAL
17. We shall have the right at our discretion, to refuse admission to our premises or attendance at our auctions by any person.
18. (a) Any right to compensation for losses liabilities and expenses incurred in respect of and as a result of any breach of these Conditions and any exclusions provided by them shall be available to the seller and/or the auctioneer as appropriate.
(b) Such rights and exclusions shall extend to and be deemed to be for the benefit of employees and agents of the seller and/or the auctioneer who may themselves enforce them.
19. Any notice to any buyer, seller, bidder or viewer may be given by first class mail, email or Swiftmail in which case it shall be deemed to have been received by the addressee 48 hours after posting.
20. Special terms may be used in catalogue descriptions of particular classes of items in which case the descriptions must be interpreted in accordance with any glossary appearing at the commencement of the catalogue.
21. Any indulgence extended to bidders, buyers or sellers by us notwithstanding the strict terms of these Conditions or of the Terms of Consignment shall affect the position at the relevant time only and in respect of that particular concession only; in all other respects these Conditions shall be construed as having full force and effect.
22. These Conditions shall be governed by and construed in accordance with English law and the parties irrevocably submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of the English courts.
