1955 British & Irish Lions in S Africa, Supporter's Scrapbook etc: This is a wonderfully comprehensive and personal history of the famous close 1955 Lions tour to S Africa, compiled by a Welsh supporter living there at the time. Substantial, well-used but all the more evocative, brown-paper bound, it contains a host of S African & British press comment, reports, previews & reviews, plus programmes, tickets, autographs and pictures from the lengthy trek. Also included is a very long, personal and 'of its time' handwritten letter (and a transcription) from the compiler to his wife & daughter back home, on the evening of the nail-biting 23-22 Lions win in the first test. Cliff Morgan, tour star, later saw the letter and commended the writer's rugby awareness - even though it was not wholly complimentary to the fly-half legend! As mentioned, it has been well used and there is inevitable marking from the tape and gum used in parts, but all is wholly legible and 'in one piece - and deserves to be cherished and preserved as one fan's caring & careful tribute to his heroes on a groundbreaking rugby adventure, 70 years ago. Must be seen! £600-1000

FOOTBALL MEMORABILIA

John James Bentley (1860 - 1918) Manchester United Secretary 1912 - 1917, a clever individual who played an important role in the emergence of organised professional football. In 1888 John James Bentley joined with others and William McGregor to form the Football League with 1888/1889 being the 1st League Season; John James Bentley was the person who proposed the points system, ie 2 points a win, 1 point a draw for each match result: this proposal was challenged in the Football League meeting of 21 November 1888 and it was carried by a narrow margin. This points method was universally adopted by virtually all the Leagues worldwide and even with small amendments it still exists in the world today some 136 years later. During his life John James Bentley was renowned for his contribution to football by his career as editor of "Athletic News", President of the Football League, Vice-President of the Football Association and Secretary/Manager of Manchester United until his untimely death in 1918.

Early 1950s an original Football Rattle in hardwood and painted in red and white with a hint of blue (maybe dating from the year of Queen Elizabeth II coronation celebration)
 Football Rattles like this were taken to football matches by the keenest of fans and were used to raise the crowd noise when their team either scored or gained a corner etc; many of the early post war, FAC finals featured the football fans in groups, using them. There is no chance that they would be allowed in the grounds these days, this item is still working and is quite heavy and cumbersome, certainly an item of curiosity dating back to the early years after WW2; fair condition, still working.
